ACQUISITIONS

- The American Antiquarian Society, Worcester, Mass., recently acquired the only known copy of the first novel published in America, Samuel Richardson's PAMELA, printed by Benjamin Franklin in Philadelphia in 1742 and 1743. The first English edition was published in 1740. Simmons College in Boston, the former owner; Goodspeed's Book Shop, which handled the transaction; and generous friends of the Society, made this acquisition possible.

- The most extensive known collection of editions of the works of Anthony Ashley Cooper, third Earl of Shaftesbury, 1671-1713 has been given to the Miami University library by William E. Alderman, dean emeritus of the college of arts and sciences. Represented among the Shaftesbury titles are sixteen of the seventeen authenticated editions of the Characteristics. The contemporary tooled leather bindings of the 17th and 18th century volumes have been restored. Critical and biographical studies, and photocopies of materials from other collections round out the gift.

AWARDS, GRANTS

- The National Science Foundation has awarded a grant of $60,723 for eighteen months to three university libraries for the purpose of initiating a cooperative project in the area of library systems development. The three university libraries are Columbia University, The University of Chicago, and Stanford University. Each of the libraries is at present engaged in major library systems analyses and in the application of computer technology to the improvement of essential library operations and services under grants from the federal government. Grants to Chicago and Columbia are from the National Science Foundation and Stanford's from the U.S. Office of Education. The primary objectives of the NSF grant are: (1) to facilitate exchange of working data, information and ideas among the participating institutions; (2) to provide the means for developing systems of general applicability; (3) to provide more systematic liaison with agencies working on the national level; (4) to improve communications of research results between participants of this cooperative program and the library community generally.

- The Council on Library Resources has made a grant of $33,537 to the Library of Congress for a pilot project to develop procedures for automated controls for single sheet maps in the collections of the geography and map division.

The procedures to be developed will utilize computer technology by recording such descriptive information as the full map title, call number, and dimensions of the map sheet, on magnetic tape. The structure of the format to be used will be the library's MARC II format. Initially, the project for machine-readable cataloging data for single-sheet maps will be concerned with current acquisitions only—some thirty-five to forty thousand maps a year. In developing automated procedures, the geography and map division will coordinate its efforts with governmental, public and research libraries which have map collections, so that the system and techniques may be useful to other map libraries as well as to the Library of Congress. The project will be administered in the geography and map division's processing section, headed by J. Douglas Hill, in cooperation with the library's information systems office. David K. Carrington, formerly librarian for the office of geography at the Department of the Interior, has joined the geography and map division staff at the Library of Congress to serve as coordinator for the project. Mrs. Viola Scandrett, computer systems analyst in the information systems office, is providing technical assistance.

BUILDINGS

- Construction of a five-story, $1.6 million annex to the library of the University of California began in Irvine early in April. The structure will be in a twin, east wing of the existing library and will more than double its book capacity.

Luther Evans delivered the address in site dedication ceremonies on April 5. During the ceremonies, Adolph A. Kroch presented a first edition of Oliver Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield: A Tale," published in 1766. The volume is the library's 200,000th. Friends of the UCI library sponsored the ceremonies.

- The dedication of the $3.3 million addition to the M. D. Anderson memorial library at the University of Houston took place on April 9-10. A symposium entitled "The History of Scholarship and Learning" included as speakers Leslie W. Dunlap, director of libraries at the University of Iowa—"Transmission of the Classics to the Modern World"; Frederick R. Goff, chief of the rare book division of the Library of Congress—"The Legacy of Gutenberg"; and Richard D. Altick, professor of English at Ohio State University—"The Emergence of Popular Reading and Scholarly Activity in the 18th and 19th Centuries."

A symposium entitled "The International Nature of Scholarship" presented German Arciniegas, Columbian Ambassador to Venezuela, speaking on "The Development of Scholarship in Latin America"; and Luther H. Evans, director of legal and international collections for Columbia University, speaking on "International Scholarship in Current Perspective."

Dedicatory ceremonies began at 2 p.m. Douglas M. Knight, president of Duke University, gave the dedicatory address. Tours of the library and a reception in the special collections room followed the dedicatory ceremony. The evening was concluded with a dinner honoring major donors to library collections.

Fellowships, Scholarships

- The school of library science, Syracuse University, had been awarded nine Title II-B fellowships by the U.S. Office of Education. The grant of $56,160 will cover tuition, stipends, dependency and travel allowances for fellows studying for the Master of Science in library science degree at Syracuse University. Fellowships will be awarded on a competitive basis. Fellows will receive a stipend of $2,200 for the academic year, September through June, 1969, and an additional $450 for the six week summer session. Travel and dependency allowances will be provided where applicable.

- Fellowships and research assistantships in the school of library science, State University College at Geneseo (N.Y.) will be supported by a grant from the U.S. Office of Education on the basis of the Higher Education Act, Title II-B. Fellowships will provide to successful applicants sums of $5,000 to cover tuition, living allowance, travel and institutional support for the 1968-69 academic year.

- Under a grant for education in librarianship made by the Office of Education, U.S. Office of Education on the basis of the Higher Education Act of 1965, Title II, Part B (P.L. 89-329), fifteen fellowships will be awarded by Case Western Reserve University for the academic year 1968-69 to qualified applicants who intend to pursue a course of study leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy with major concentration in the field of library education. Each fellowship carries free tuition, a stipend of $5,000 for the academic year, and an additional $1,020 for the 1969 summer session, reimbursement for related travel expenses, and a $600 allowance for each dependent for the academic year. with an additional $120 for the summer session. The fellowships are available for full-time study only and require residence for the academic year.

Applicants for admission to the program must be professional librarians with appropriate undergraduate preparation; the MS in LS degree from an accredited library school; significant professional experience. Applicants must fulfill all other admission requirements of the university, must have demonstrated excellence in academic studies and show exceptional professional promise. Inquiries concerning the fellowship program may be addressed directly to the Office of the Dean, School of Library Science, Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio 44106. Application papers must be filed by June 1.

- The department of library education at Oklahoma State University announces the establishment of the Robert T. Motter library science scholarship in the amount of $1,000. The scholarship was created by the Motter Bookbinding Company in memory of its founder, Robert T. Motter. Candidacy for the scholarship is open to men and women who have at least junior standing; graduate students are encouraged to apply. The award will be made for study in the library education program at Oklahoma State University, and the recipient will be chosen on the basis of “proven scholastic ability plus aptitude and potential for growth in the profession of librarianship.” The deadline for applications is July 1. Application forms will be sent to those who request them although a personal interview in Stillwater is required. Inquiries may be addressed to Dr. Roscoe Rouse, Head, Department of Library Education, Oklahoma State University, Stillwater, Oklahoma 74074.

Here's good news for many of our subscribers:

With the first issue of Volume 5, March 1968, CHOICE began an additional service long requested by subscribers — CHOICE Reviews-on-Cards. If you were not among the service's charter subscribers, you may want to consider it now.

CHOICE Reviews-on-Cards can bring to your acquisitions system a new convenience as versatile as you want to make it. Cards make it easy to separate and distribute reviews simultaneously to other librarians and faculty — no more tearing up copies or waiting forever for circulating copies to return. Cards can save clerical steps in ordering and checking holdings (ample space for notations on both front and back of each card). They are a cataloging aid, and they are easy to locate in your desiderata file. You can probably think of dozens of other uses in your own system.

DESCRIPTION OF CARD REVIEWS
As each regular issue of CHOICE goes to press, all reviews in the issue are reprinted separately on 3 x 5 cards. Each is identified by subject heading and issue date. Collated in the order followed in the magazine, they are boxed and mailed to you via Fourth Class mail, Special Handling.

DELIVERY OF CARDS
Fourth Class, Special Handling means your box of cards is carried from our post office to yours with regular First Class mail, but delivered according to your local Parcel Post delivery schedule. You should receive cards at about the same time as your regular issue by Second Class mail.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO REVIEWS-ON-CARDS
Cards are available only by yearly subscription at a cost of $80 per year. All subscriptions begin in March and run through the following February. You must maintain a regular subscription to CHOICE to receive cards.

HOW TO ORDER
Subscriptions to Reviews-on-Cards should be ordered from Subscription Department, American Library Association, 50 E. Huron Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611. They are not available through agencies. An order form is provided below for your convenience. All subscriptions ordered now will be back dated to March 1968, and you will receive all back issues to that date.

For additional information about the card service, please write CHOICE Editorial Offices, 100 Riverview Center, Middletown, Connecticut 06457.

California Library Reprint Series

As production costs rise, and as the number of books published each year increases, it becomes more difficult to keep slower selling titles in print for adequate periods. Yet many of these titles—usually those of a specialized nature—are of enduring value to libraries, scholars, students, or to the professions. With the advent of microfilm and reprint firms, and other reproduction services, many of these specialized books are becoming accessible, but not always in a convenient format or at a price acceptable to those requiring the materials.

Recognizing this need, the University of California Press is launching a new series of small-edition, cloth reprints that will reproduce the original work in its entirety, and in a format as close to the original as possible. The first group bearing the California Library Reprint Series imprint comprises seven titles.

MISCELLANY

- The Committee to Investigate Copyright Problems, 2233 Wisconsin Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20007, has just completed the first factual report on the amount of and the kinds of copyrighted materials copied by U.S. libraries. The study was supported by the U.S. Office of Education, Bureau of Research.

Copyright law gives the author the exclusive right “to print, reprint, publish, copy and sell” his copyrighted work. The court-developed exception to this exclusive right is “fair use.” Current library copying practices are based on the belief that these practices are sanctioned under law. The study examines what the courts have actually decided.

The study is timely and of particular significance because of pending copyright legislation—HR 2412/S 597 passed by the House of Representatives April 12, 1967, and S 2216, the Senate-passed bill which proposes a National Commission on New Technological Uses of Copyrighted Works.

The report is available at a cost of $10.00 per copy. Remittance should accompany purchase order.

- The first planning conference on automated indexing for archives and manuscripts was held under the auspices of the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration on March 25. The conference was supported by funds granted by the Council on Library Resources and was attended by representatives of nine repositories of archives or personal papers—Cornell University, the Library of Congress, Minnesota
This is the long awaited International Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences.

The first reference work of its kind in over thirty years, it brings the full scope of modern social science to your library.

The original Encyclopaedia of the Social Sciences was published by The Macmillan Company in 1937. Instead of merely "bringing it up-to-date," we felt that a totally new encyclopedia was called for—one which would reflect the far-reaching progress being made by current social science.

Now, after an investment of more than seven years and two million dollars, the International Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences is ready.

This monumental work covers the full range of contemporary social science: anthropology, economics, geography, history, law, political science, psychiatry, sociology—and statistics, the tool of the social scientist.

Every article is written with unusual clarity. But sophisticated concepts have not been oversimplified. And the encyclopedia is liberally cross-referenced and indexed to be of maximum use to students, social scientists—and laymen in other fields.

The authority of the work is unquestionable. The list of over 1,600 contributors—as well as the editorial board—reads like a virtual "Who's Who" of distinguished social scientists throughout the world. No viewpoint of any importance has been overlooked.

Send for our free prospectus today. It includes a complete list of editors and contributors (with their affiliations), a detailed index of all 17 volumes, and the story of how this unique encyclopedia was created.

Historical Society, Ohio Historical Society, the Smithsonian Institution, Syracuse University, the State Historical Society of Wisconsin, and the host institution, the National Archives. The purpose of the conference was to discuss the computer programs and information formats that will be required by each of the institutions to implement a common computerized system for indexing or creating finding aids to historical source materials. The program, dubbed SPINDEX for Selective Permutation Indexing, is being written in the National Archives by a staff supported by the grant from the Council. It is designated to meet the requirements of the major manuscript repositories in the country.

The ten co-operating institutions (the University of Alaska representative could not attend the meeting) have agreed to advise the National Archives staff on a desired format. When the National Archives staff has devised a draft program, the cooperating institutions will test it in order to assess its applicability to local procedures. When the program has been written, tested and proven feasible, it will be described in a publication about the project. The program will then be available to any archives or manuscript repository that wishes to use it.

- The British National Bibliography has awarded a contract to Indata Limited to set up a computer system to produce regularly on magnetic tape full bibliographic records of the current output of British publishers. The system design will be compatible with the U.S. Library of Congress Project MARC. The BNB MARC Record will follow the agreed U.S. MARC II file structure with appropriate additions for British usage. Local institutions could take this tape, add local data and use it in their own systems. The BNB MARC project was made possible by a grant from the Office for Scientific and Technical Information (OSTI) of the Department of Education and Science. The OSTI grant covers a period of one year and Indata systems analysis and programming are expected to be completed in about six months, followed by a running-in period to test the acceptability of the system. All British publications will be recorded by the BNB on paper tape and forwarded to Indata for validation and creation of a weekly MARC catalog. In addition to the magnetic tape record, Indata will provide diagnostic listings of errors, amendments, and deletions affecting the weekly input or the permanent BNB catalog. The system will also be designed to print a BNB index, in coded standard book-number sequence, and a title index, in alphabetical sequence, of all BNB records added to the catalog each week.

PUBLICATIONS

- A supplement to Continuing Education for Librarians, a listing for 1968-69 of workshops, conferences, seminars and short courses in librarianship has been compiled and produced by the Office for Library Education of ALA. Twenty institutes are listed in the supplement. As in the original listing, information is arranged by place, by subject, and by date. Each entry includes the title of the meeting, the place, sponsoring agency, director or instructors, tuition and registration charges, deadline for registration, and the source for further information. The supplement, like the original listing, is intended for use by librarians, teachers, information scientists and personnel officers. It is available without charge from Continuing Education for Librarians, American Library Association, 50 East Huron Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

• The University of North Carolina library at Chapel Hill has issued a computer-produced record of its serial and periodical holdings. Published in the form of a six-hundred-page volume, with double-column offset printing, the record lists and indicates holdings for approximately thirty-four thousand periodicals and other serials held by the main library and departmental libraries at UNC. Copies have been distributed to libraries in North Carolina and to selected libraries elsewhere. Other libraries may purchase copies ($10) from the Accounting Department, University of North Carolina Library, Chapel Hill, North Carolina 27514.

• A new section of the first English Full Edition of the Universal Decimal Classification (UDC) has just been published—UDC77: Photography. It covers the classification of all documents in the photographic field from the scientific, technical, and artistic points of view. The English version of UDC is being prepared and published as BS 1000 by the British Standards Institution at the original joint request of the British Society for International Bibliography (BSIB) and the Association of Special Libraries and Information Bureaux (ASLIB), both now amalgamated under Aslib. The priority program now in hand is designed to complete the publication of the entire English Full Edition by the end of 1969. Copies of BS 1000 (77) may be obtained from the BSI Sales Office, 101/113 Pentonville Road, London, N.1. Price 20/-each (postage 1/-extra to non-subscribers).

• Sample Catalog Cards continues a tradition of publishing which dates from 1937. The 4th edition has been prepared to illustrate the changes in form and content of catalog cards which result from the publication of the Anglo-American Cataloging Rules. Copies may be obtained from the School of Library Service, 516 Butler Library, Columbia University, New York, New York 10027 for $3 each, postpaid. Orders aggregating less than $10 must be accompanied by payment with checks or money orders made payable to Columbia University.

LED CONFERENCE PROGRAM

Training Library Technical Assistants will be the theme of the program meeting of the Library Education Division on June 26 in Kansas City. It will be preceded by the LED business meeting, which will begin a 10 a.m. Both meetings will be held in the Music Hall of the Municipal Auditorium during the ALA 1968 Annual Conference.

Rose L. Vormelker of the school of library science, Kent State University (Ohio), and president of LED, will preside at the business meeting. Dorothy F. Deiningher, of the graduate school of library service, Rutgers—the State University, New Brunswick, N.J., will preside at the program meeting.

“Emerging Patterns of Technician Employment With Implications for Libraries” will be discussed by Walter J. Brooking, program specialist, technical education, U.S. Office of Education.

“Canadian Training Programs for Library Technicians” will be the topic of a talk by John M. Marshall, assistant professor, school of library science, University of Toronto.

John Sherrod, director of the National Agricultural Library, will speak on “Library Technicians in the U.S. Civil Service.”

“Junior College Programs for Library Technicians” will be the subject of a talk by Mrs. Mayrelee F. Newman, director, instructional resources, El Centro College, Dallas.

Joseph F. Schubert, librarian, Ohio State Library, Columbus, will discuss “Guidelines for Technical Assistant Training Programs—The LED Interdivisional Committee on Training Programs for Supportive Library Staff.”

If we don’t have the out-of-print book you’re looking for, we’ll find it, film it, clear copyright, pay royalties and send it to you for 4¢ a page.

Even if we end up in the Alps. Like we did last year to microfilm 11th and 12th century manuscripts in monastic scriptoria.

Usually, we just have to go downstairs to our vaults where we keep over 50,000 titles. But whether we go to Timbuktu or whether the original is worth $10 or $10,000, the cost for your copy is the same. A penny-and-a-third a page for 35mm positive microfilm. Four cents a page for a paperbound xerographic copy. Six cents a page for a copy in a foreign language.

This service often costs less than an interlibrary loan. And you get to keep the book.

Write for University Microfilms’ out-of-print book catalogs. Tell us what fields you’re interested in.

Why should you look for things when we’ve already found them.
