Internet for Russian and East European studies

By Michael Markiw

Electronic resources for Slavic studies

The continually expanding Internet, a group of interconnected computer networks, links educational, governmental, and commercial organizations worldwide. Perhaps the largest computer network in the world, its considerable size contributes to a vast pool of information. Much of it is so disorganized, however, one often resorts to discovering information by "net surfing" via navigational tools such as Gopher, which offers lifelines of automatic connections to worldwide networks through its system of hierarchical menus. In order to further systematize information within the Internet, efforts are underway to organize some of it by subject. One result of these efforts is a selected listing of Internet resources for Russian and East European studies consisting of computer conferences of special interest groups, electronic journals, newsletters, and online bibliographies.

Computer Conferences

Subscriptions to listservs provide access to computer conferences of special interest groups. Listserv groups may have Internet or Bitnet addresses, for example, RUSSIA@ARIZVM1.CCIT.ARIZONA.EDU (Internet) and RUSSIA@ARIZVM1 (Bitnet). Subscribers with Internet addresses should use the listserv's Internet address, (e.g. LISTSERV@ARIZVM1.CCIT.ARIZONA.EDU) and subscribers with Bitnet addresses should use the listserv's Bitnet address, (e.g. LISTSERV@ARIZVM1). (Ed note: To subscribe to a list send the following e-mail message to listserv@node, where node is the part of the address after the "@" symbol: SUBSCRIBE Listname FirstName LastName. For example, to subscribe to BALT-L@UBVM, Jane Doe would send the following message to LISTSERV@UBVM: SUBSCRIBE BALT-L Jane Doe.) After the subscription has been requested the subscriber will receive confirmation and further participation instructions. Other conferences appear as newsgroups on Usenet, an international computer network that provides access through most university campus computer systems. Below is a selective list of currently available conferences.

- BALT-INFO links librarians and information specialists in major research libraries of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania with their counterparts in the West. Initially, this new network intends to provide information exchange among librarians about Baltic-related library resources and serve as an electronic information resource on the Baltic area. Eventually, other interested researchers in the field of Baltic studies will be able to receive help with bibliographic citations as well as submit reference requests. For subscription information contact Dawn Mann at MANND@RFERL.ORG.
- BALT-L@UBVM (Baltic Republics Discussion List) discusses politics and current affairs of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania.
- EOCHR (Eastern Orthodox Christian Discussion List) provides a forum for exchange of ideas among members of Eastern and Orthodox churches around the world and other individuals interested in Eastern Orthodox Christianity. Contact Dragic V. Vukomanovic, DRAGIC.VUKOMANOVIC@QUEENSU.CA to subscribe.
- EUERNL@UBVM (Discussion of Eastern Europe Telecommunications) is concerned with

Contact Aaron Trehub, Editor, ABSEES, absees@uxl.cso.uiuc.edu.

Future applications
Future applications of this technology include the following:
- a database of 90,000 scanned images of the historical photographs in the Louisiana and Lower Mississippi Valley Collections searchable by patrons in the reading room on a WORM optical cartridge; access will be through hierarchical or key word modes. (The authority file for the index will be the Library of Congress Thesaurus for Graphic Materials.)
- bibliographical and textual analysis projects, such as enhancing the comparison of literary text both within editions and across editions
- compilations of historical statistical data, which will be available both in simple tabular form and in datafiles suitable for manipulation by standard spreadsheet and database software
- electronic publication of a number of journals in the public domain, such as the Fisheries Bulletin
- access to other publications in the public domain, including a very large body of "grey" literature on the Gulf of Mexico (literature published in unrefereed publications)
- continue to serve as a Beta test site for new computer hardware and software developed by Key Systems Incorporated, a Baton Rouge company

Summary
The Electronic Imaging Laboratory has given the LSU Libraries an opportunity to make Special Collections materials available to a wider audience and to develop projects that will provide more and easier to use research materials in the future. Documents relating the early history of Louisiana are also being preserved with electronic imaging.

—Reference and Research Book News

Yearbook of International Organizations 1993/94
Edited by the Union of International Associations, Brussels

This latest edition of the standard international reference work provides detailed information for over 34,000 organizations active in over 225 countries, and is dramatically restructured for easier access.

Alphabetically arranged for ease of use, Volume 1: Organization Descriptions and Index, is the most current reference available on international bodies — 34,000 entries in all, with in-depth, unparalleled data on some 11,600. This volume covers everything from intergovernmental and national bodies, to conferences and religious orders and fraternities.

Volume 2: International Organization Participation makes possible systematic identification of each country's range of direct or indirect international activity. Designed for use by national and international agencies, embassies, ministries, and university and law libraries, its alphabetical arrangement offers a comprehensive picture of national involvement in international concerns.

Volume 3: Global Action Networks is a comprehensive overview of the range and network of activities of the international organizations themselves — organized alphabetically by subject and by region. Similar to a "yellow pages", it groups international and regional bodies under 2,000 categories of common ideas, aims, and activities.
