Deadlines: Orders for regular classified advertisements must reach the ACRL office on or before the second of the month preceding publication of the issue (e.g., September 2 for the October issue). Should this date fall on a weekend or holiday, ads will be accepted on the next business day. Late job listings will be accepted on a space-available basis after the second of the month.

Rates: Classified advertisements are $9.50 per line for institutions that are ACRL members, $11.50 for others. Late job notices are $22.00 per line for institutions that are ACRL members, $26.75 for others. Organizations submitting ads will be charged according to their membership status. Display ad rates range from $435 to $820 based upon size. Please call for sizes and rates. Or see our Website: http://www.ala.org/acrl/advert2.html.

Guidelines: For ads that list an application deadline, we suggest that date be no sooner than the 20th day of the month in which the notice appears (e.g., October 20 for the October issue). All job announcements should include a salary range per policy of the American Library Association (ALA). Job announcements will be edited to exclude discriminatory references. Applicants should be aware that the terms faculty rank and status vary in meaning among institutions.

ART HISTORY LIBRARIAN. Emory University (new position). The Department of Art History has one of the university's fastest-growing graduate programs, and the curatorial staff of the Michael C. Carlos Museum also depends on the library for assistance. The rate of growth of Emory's art history collections is the highest among libraries participating in the North American Title Count, 1989-1997. The purchase of the Wilhelm Suida collection in 1997 greatly enhanced the library's ability to support the study of Renaissance and Baroque art. The library is committed to a partnership with the Information Technology Division (ITD) to deliver quality services to faculty and students. Responsibilities: Plan and deliver library services to support graduate level research and study in the history of art and architecture and the work of curators and staff of the Michael C. Carlos Museum; responsibilities include collection development and management, instruction in the use of library resources, consultative reference services, and marketing the availability of library resources and services. Produce guides, bibliographies, Web documents, etc., relating to the art history collections. Serve as liaison to the Department of Art History, including its slide library, and to the Michael C. Carlos Museum. Work with staff in collection management, technical services, circulation, and special collections to provide for optimal access to and security for the collections. Collaborate with information Technology specialists, who provide network and desktop support to users, to facilitate the use of electronic library resources. Actively seek opportunities for the library to present, and the slide library to work together with ITD to serve the needs of faculty and students in art history in new and innovative ways. Trinity College invites applications and nominations for the position of College Librarian. The Librarian reports to the Dean of Faculty and has faculty status as a College Professor. The Librarian provides leadership and vision for the operations of the Library, and is responsible for its overall management, including planning, budgeting, resource development, and strategic planning. The Librarian also is expected to work effectively with other College officers and external constituents, participate in the work of College committees, and play a role in developing new models of teaching and learning both on the campus and in the College’s global sites.

Trinity College Library has a print collection of some 950,800 volumes, 2,400 periodical subscriptions, and a wide array of online resources. It includes the Watkinson Library, a distinguished research and rare book library, founded in 1857. The Library has an annual budget of $3,521,000 and a staff of 33. The Trinity Library is a member of the CTW Library Consortium with Wesleyan University and Connecticut College. The Consortium operates an integrated library system. Trinity Library and the College Computing Center have developed a close cooperative relationship. These organizations will share and jointly operate an expanded Library facility. Construction of this facility is planned to begin in the spring of 2001.

The College Librarian should have a deep and longstanding commitment to the standards and competencies of professional librarianship. Candidates will hold the MLS degree and have additional graduate education; present a minimum of eight years of experience in an academic library, including administrative experience in personnel supervision and budget management; have an informed understanding of the role of information technology in library service; and provide evidence of strong leadership ability.

Trinity College is a liberal arts college located in the south end of Hartford. Founded in 1823, Trinity currently has an undergraduate body of 2,000 students and 125 part-time graduate students (MA).

The Search Committee will begin reading applications on March 1, 2000, with an anticipated appointment effective July 1, 2000.
