THE CLASSIFIED ADS

Deadlines: Orders for regular classified advertisements must reach the ACRL office on or before the second of the month preceding publication of the issue (e.g., September 2 for the October issue). Should this date fall on a weekend or holiday, ads will be accepted on the next business day. Late job listings will be accepted on a space-available basis after the second of the month.

Rates: Classified advertisements are $7.10 per line for institutions that are ACRL members, $9.00 for others. Late job notices are $17.25 per line for institutions that are ACRL members, $20.50 for others. Organizations submitting ads will be charged according to their membership status. Display ad rates range from $320 to $610 based upon size. Please call for sizes and rates.

Guidelines: For ads that list an application deadline, we suggest that date be no sooner than the 20th day of the month in which the notice appears (e.g., October 20 for the October issue). All job announcements should include a salary range per policy of the American Library Association (ALA). Job announcements will be edited to exclude discriminatory references. Applicants should be aware that the terms faculty rank and status vary in meaning among institutions.

Internet: C&RL News classified ads are now accessible on the Internet through the gopher server at the University of Illinois at Chicago. Ads will be placed on the gopher approximately 2-3 weeks before the printed edition of C&RL News is published. To reach C&RL NewsNet locate the University of Illinois at Chicago in the menu of all servers maintained on gopher at the University of Minnesota. Alternatively, connect your favorite gopher client directly to host "gopher.uic.edu 70". Select "The Library" from the menu and then select "C&RL NewsNet" from the next menu.

Contact: Jack Helbig, Classified Advertising Manager, C&RL News Classified Advertising Department, ACRL, American Library Association, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, IL 60611-2795; (312) 280-2513; fax: (312) 280-7663 or (312) 280-2520; e-mail: U21808@UICVM.uic.edu.

Policy: ALA policy requires that organizations recruiting through ALA publications or placement services comply with ALA anti-discrimination policies. Policy 54.3 states that "ALA is committed to equality of opportunity for all library employees or applicants for employment, regardless of race, color, creed, sex, age, physical or mental handicap, individual lifestyle, or national origin." By advertising through ALA services, the organization agrees to comply with this policy.

ENVIRONMENTAL RESOURCES LIBRARIAN

Reporting to the Head of Government Documents and Non-Book Formats Department and with the guidance of an Environmental Resources Steering Committee, the Environmental Resources Librarian will be responsible for the following: survey existing information resources pertaining to the environment and identify areas of strength and weakness, coordinate the acquisition of or access to resources in all formats by the various units of the University Library, work with commercial services and vendors to improve the content of their services and products, develop databases and computer-based search tools to environmental resources at Harvard and take the lead in developing links to national environmental information resources, provide reference and instructional support for students and faculty at Harvard, write grant proposals.

Environmental Studies is one of five interfaculty initiatives the President of Harvard University has identified as having special importance to the University. To coordinate Harvard's efforts in this area, a University committee on Environmental Studies has been established. In addition, the Faculty of Arts and Sciences has approved an undergraduate Environmental Sciences and Public Policy concentration. Key to the success of this environmental initiative is the availability of research sources and support for students and scholars in locating and using these information resources from across the University and around the world. University funding for the initial phase of an information resources program has been secured, with the expectation of future support from external sources.

The Harvard College Library seeks a creative, innovative and technologically experienced individual to develop an information resources program to support teaching and research in environmental studies. The Environmental Resources Librarian will have substantive knowledge of both traditional and electronic resources including the Internet and a strong commitment to furthering the use of advanced information technology in a service-oriented setting. The Librarian will serve as a key resource to faculty and students in discovering and utilizing information in all formats and will provide leadership and expertise in organizing, searching, discovering, retrieving, and manipulating both electronic and traditional information resources.

Qualifications: MLS or equivalent experience in academic library-based information services. Academic training in environmental studies or related area, knowledge of environmental information resources, microcomputer applications experience and a working knowledge of networked tools and resources. Initiative and the ability to work effectively with all elements of the academic community. Excellent written and oral communication skills and the ability to work creatively while fostering a cooperative approach are essential.

Compensation: Appointment salary depending on qualifications, mid 40's. Major benefits include one month's vacation; generous holiday and sick leave; choice of health plans; dental insurance; life insurance; disability benefits; University-funded retirement income plan; tax-deferred annuity options; staff tuition assistance; child care scholarships.

TWO POSITION OPENINGS

University of Mississippi Libraries

In response to the recent implementation of the Innovative Interfaces system, the University of Mississippi Libraries seek two creative, flexible individuals to join our technical services team. Both positions are available at the entry level, and both require a desire to learn on the job, and grow into additional responsibilities. These are faculty-rank, tenure-track appointments, and include all the rights and responsibilities associated with that status. Other requirements include: An ALA-accredited MLS, strong communication skills (both written and oral), strong interpersonal skills, and the ability to work without close supervision in a team environment. Standard familiarity with OCLC, MARC formats, LCSH, and cataloging in an automated environment is also required.

SERIALS LIBRARIAN

Responsible for original cataloging of serials (including periodicals and continuations), and database maintenance of serials records. Oversees serials copy cataloging and union listing. Reports to the Technical Services Team Leader. Coordinates work of at least one support staff member, but will function as part of the overall technical services group, and so will have extensive contact with other professionals and staff in technical services. Preferred qualifications: Academic library technical services experience, familiarity with French and/or German, background in serials, familiarity with technical services modules of Innovative Interfaces or another major integrated library system.

NON-BOOK CATALOGER/PRESERVATION LIBRARIAN

Responsible for original and copy cataloging of music, audiovisual, and other nonbook, monographic formats, including materials to be housed in Special Collections and the Blues Archives. Will also be responsible for coordinating preservation efforts within technical services, and will oversee physical processing. Reports to the technical services team leader. Will work closely with faculty and staff in special collections, the music library, and throughout technical services. Preferred qualifications: Academic library technical services experience, familiarity with one or more Romance languages (e.g., French or Italian) and/or German, familiarity with cataloging on Innovative Interfaces or another major integrated library system. Bachelor's degree in music or coursework relevant to the position is also desirable.

Founded in 1848, the university is located in Oxford, a cultural center and historic town located in north Mississippi, approximately one hour south of Memphis. The University of Mississippi Libraries are members of OCLC, SOLINET, the Center for Research Libraries, and the Coalition for Networked Information. Library collections comprise over 760,000 volumes and 6,400 journal subscriptions, a regional depository for United States government publications, three branch libraries, and notable special collections on the American South. A $3.3 million budget and 54 library faculty and staff serve 11,000 students and over 500 faculty. The libraries are undergoing a $15 million building expansion and renovation.

MAP LIBRARIAN. An excellent employment opportunity is available in Lancaster, Pennsylvania at GeoSystems, a fast-growing subsidiary Applications and nominations are invited for the position of University Librarian, with a starting date of July 1, 1995. The university is seeking an energetic, forward-looking, and innovative individual with knowledge and vision to develop the library to its fullest potential in the information superhighway environment.

One of 21 campuses of the California State University system, the university is located on the eastern edge of the city of Los Angeles. The university features a diverse student body of approximately 20,000 undergraduate, graduate, and professional students, and a faculty of approximately 600 FTE. The university has collective bargaining agreements with the faculty (including librarians) and eight other bargaining units. The library offers comprehensive end-user searching capabilities for its students and faculty to numerous online systems and services and has holdings of approximately one million volumes. An integrated OPAC has recently been implemented.

Reporting to the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, the University Librarian provides planning and implementing strategies to enhance services and collections, with a special emphasis on full-text development, and administrative and programmatic leadership in furthering the creative use of modern technologies and to manage effectively the library's electronic and print resources. Responsibilities include long-range planning; formulating and implementing goals, objectives, and policies; and managing personnel, budgets, and facilities, with a focus on developing effective means of information access, end-user services, and effective technologies to serve the library's own collections and provide access to other materials. The University Librarian solicits external funding, develops cooperative arrangements with other institutions, and actively participates and contributes to library outreach in a rich multicultural and multiethnic academic setting.

An MLS degree from an ALA-accredited institution is required; a strong record of scholarly professional achievement is desirable. Candidates must demonstrate significant and successful senior library administrative experience in a highly developed electronic environment and have strong leadership ability; working knowledge of new technologies and their applications to libraries; a strong commitment to excellence in library services; effective interpersonal, oral, and written communication skills; strong commitment to affirmative action; and the ability to interact effectively with diverse cultural and ethnic groups.

The university has an active affirmative action program and encourages qualified minorities, women, and disabled persons to apply. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications. Review of files will begin on November 15, 1994, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Candidates are urged to submit their information as early as possible to allow for full consideration. Applicants should submit a letter of interest and a complete resume, and request that three letters of reference be sent to:

A lot can change in a year—especially when it comes to people in the public spotlight. That's why Marquis Who's Who in America, is now published yearly.

This year alone there are over 16,000 new entries and 61,000 updated biographies. And the changes don't stop there. Researchers will now be able to take advantage of another innovation—the Geographic/Professional Index is now included at no extra charge. It's no wonder that since 1899, more researchers turn to Who's Who in America as America's foremost biographical reference.
