But your budget probably is.

BRI covers every review appearing in 235 magazines and newspapers. It covers all the major literary and educational periodicals. It also provides access to the more specialized media which yield useful insights on books dealing with arts and crafts, business and economics, religion and philosophy, minority affairs, and other contemporary concerns.

Each year BRI covers 65,000 reviews of over 35,000 books.

THE BIMONTHLY PUBLICATION

$45 per year. New subscribers receive an 8½” x 11” loose-leaf ring binder. Published February, April, June, August, and December. (For convenience in using BRI, the April, August, and December issues cumulate the previous issue.)

ANNUAL CUMULATIONS

Bound volumes cumulating the contents of a year’s issues of BRI are prepared immediately after publication of the December issue.

- Bound volumes for 1969 and later years are $45 each, available as follows:
  1972 cumulation: in print
  1973 cumulation: ready early 1974

A NOTE ON THE HISTORY OF BRI

BRI was first inaugurated in 1965 as a periodical and continued through 1967. Clothbound cumulations were published after each year’s December issue.

In 1968, the periodical was suspended, due to mechanical difficulties and inadequate customer support. A clothbound cumulation was published for 1968, but no further issues or bound volumes appeared until 1972.

The suspension caused a flurry of queries from libraries who recognized BRI as a “basic reference tool” (to quote from CHOICE). As time passed, the demand for BRI increased.

In 1972, Gale resumed publication of periodical issues. At the same time work commenced on retrospective indexing to fill in for the missing years.

The 1972 cumulation is in print. The 1973 cumulation is scheduled for early publication. Bound volumes for 1969, 1970, and 1971 are being worked on.

Listings in Book Review Index provide author’s name, title of book, reviewing publication, date and page of review.
