The Works of Stephen Crane
Edited by Fredson Bowers
(Center for Editions of American Authors)

The O'Ruddy Volume IV
Edited by Fredson Bowers, University of Virginia. Introduction by J. C. Levenson, University of Virginia. lxxiv, 362 pp., illus. $15.00

The O'Ruddy, an Irish romance, is the last work written by Crane. It was left unfinished at the time of his death and was later completed by Robert Barr. The O'Ruddy shows the extent of Crane's artistic creativity and his genuine feeling for Irish people, language, and customs. This edition, based mainly on an unrecorded holograph manuscript of Crane's and on Robert Barr's early page proof, is as close as possible to the version Crane originally intended. The Introduction gives a detailed analysis of The O'Ruddy's sources.

Reports of War Volume IX
Edited by Fredson Bowers, University of Virginia. Introduction by James B. Colvert, University of Georgia. xxix, 678 pp., illus. $24.00

Volume IX of Crane's Works establishes for the first time a definitive text of Crane's war dispatches from Greece, Florida, Cuba, Puerto Rico, and England. Crane wrote the dispatches for various syndicates and newspapers, most of them appearing in the New York World, the New York Journal, or the Westminster Gazette. This volume also includes Great Battles of the World, a series of eight articles written for Lippincott's Magazine, and several "Imogene Carter" war dispatches from Greece which Cora Crane wrote with Crane's help.

The Buck Fever Papers
By Sherwood Anderson. Edited by Welford Dunaway Taylor, University of Richmond. xxx, 250 pp., illus. $12.50

Sherwood Anderson was at his wittiest when he wrote these whimsical news stories under the guise of "Buck Fever" for his two newspapers in Southwest Virginia. This is the first complete collection of those columns, and it is the best collection of Anderson's humorous and dialect writing.
