ACQUISITIONS

- A fine collection of rare books and other materials was recently presented to the GANNETT-THIPP LEARNING CENTER, ELMIRA COLLEGE by Dr. Herman Lande of New York City. The collection was given in memory of the Lande family of Elmira, New York. Dr. Lande, a Manhattan physician, collected rare books over several decades primarily reflecting his interest in politics, science, and the arts in England and America.

Among the materials presented were: Darwin's On the Origin of Species ... 1859, first edition, first issue; Hobbes' Leviathan ... 1651, first edition; Locke's An Essay Concerning Human Understanding, 1690, first issue of the first edition with the undated dedication to the Earl of Pembroke and the title page in the rare variant of the first issue with the S's in Essay inverted; Adam Smith's ... Wealth of Nations, 1776, first edition; and a very fine copy in the original state, of Benjamin Franklin's Poor Richard Improved, 1766.

Also included are: William Blake's Illustrations to the Book of Job, 1826, first edition, first issue, entirely uncut; Arthur Rackham's illustrations to The Ingoldsby Legends ... 1907, with five original drawings; and limited editions of the Collected Works and individual plays by Eugene O'Neill, all signed by the author.

From the American Revolutionary Period is an exceedingly rare first edition of the Proceedings of a Board of General Officers ... Respecting Major John André, September 29, 1780. It is accompanied by autograph letters of all members of the Board, including Generals Steuben, Greene, and Lafayette. Also included are three pound and schilling notes from the Province of Pennsylvania (1759, 1760, 1764) printed by Benjamin Franklin; and William Bradford's last issue of the Pennsylvania Journal ... , "which departed this life the 31st of October, 1765, of a Stamp in her Vitals, aged 23 years."

The impressive collection is completed with works by Francis Bacon, William Shakespeare, Ethan Allen, Henry Fielding, among others, and several works published by the None Such Press and William Morris' Kelmscott Press.

- The TRINITY COLLEGE LIBRARY, Hartford, Connecticut, has received a collection of Bibles and early medical books from Mrs. Henry W. Bopp of Terre Haute, Indiana. The group of Bibles includes an incunabulum: The 1483 Vulgate published by Renner de Hallbrun in Venice, the 1560 Geneva "Breeches" Bible, and the first edition, second issue, of the 1611 King James Bible. Copies of the three editions of the Germantown, Pennsylvania, Sauer Bible, 1743, 1763, and 1776, are also represented. This was the first American Bible printed in a modern European language. Also included is the 1781 Aiken Bible, the first Bible printed in English in the U.S.

The medical collection contains a copy of the 1568 Vesalius: De humani corporis fabrica libri system in a fine contemporary stamped pigskin binding, dated 1574; the 1648, third edition of Harvey's: Excercitate de motu cordis et sanguinis in animalibus; and the 1819 Laënnec: De l'auscultation medicale.

All of these rare works have been added to the college's Watkinson Library.

GRANT

PURPOSE: The Reference Aids Subcommit­tee of the Committee on Research Mate­rials on Southeast Asia (CORMOSEA), As­sociation for Asian Studies, invites application for financial assistance in completing reference tool projects on Southeast Asia. The subcommittee's primary interest is to encourage and stimulate new reference tools, such as guides, bibliographies, indexes, handbooks, directories, etc., pertaining to the individual countries of Southeast Asia or to the region as a whole. It is interested in providing completion grants to those projects already under way which would require limited support for their completion.

The grants are modest, ranging from $250 to $2,000 per award. The grants are not intend­ed to cover salaries for the author or compiler, but are designed to defray the costs of typist, supplies, postage, and research materials and the like. It does not support publication sub­sidy.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: The subcommittee does not have any specific application form. In writing one's request, the following information should be included:

1. The proposed title of the project and the name(s) of the author(s)/compiler(s).
2. Statement of the need and the significance of the project.
3. Statement of the purpose, scope, and status of the project.
4. Methodology or procedure of the project.
5. Personal background.
   (a) Academic qualifications, Southeast Asian experience, and present position.
   (b) Linguistic skills.
   (c) List of publications of the applicant.
   (a) Amount of financial aid requested.
   (b) Breakdown of use.
   (c) Other sources of aid.
7. Extent to which your institution will support your request. If it will not, state reasons.
8. Plan for publication.
   (a) Estimated date of completion.
   (b) Commitment, if any, from any publisher to publish the proposed work.
9. Names and addresses of three references.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: The deadline for the submission of the proposal is July 31, 1976. The awards will be announced in late October or early November 1976.

The proposal or request for further information should be addressed to: Shiro Saito, Chairman, Reference Aids Subcommittee, CORMOSEA, University of Hawaii Library, 2550 The Mall, Honolulu, HI 96822.

For the first time, 100 important English-language little magazine titles (both foreign and American) have been completely indexed from their beginning issues through their last issues, or 1970. These 100 distinct “experiments in literature” characterized as “little magazines” have been chosen for Series One by two distinguished experts in the field of literature: Professors Charles Allen and Felix Pollack. The Index provides access for the first time to many existing works until now “lost” to scholars. In addition to early texts of major authors, the only published works of secondary authors can now be easily located.

Some indexes to the journal literature cover some of the social sciences disciplines... A few concentrate on one discipline, but Only SSCI™ covers all the major disciplines in the social sciences.

The Social Sciences Citation Index (SSCI) provides the kind of coverage you need for doing in-depth searches of the journal literature. It covers every editorial item in over 1,400 leading social sciences journals in fields ranging from anthropology to urban planning. Plus it selectively indexes over 1,200 more journals from the natural, physical and biomedical sciences for articles relevant to the social sciences.

Because it is multidisciplinary, the SSCI does the work of several discipline-oriented indexes. A single look-up in the SSCI gives you access to the literature of over 50 major specialties. In all, nearly 85,000 items are indexed each year.

Easy to use, the SSCI offers several indexing approaches so you can quickly find pertinent information. All you need to start a search is an earlier paper on your topic, the name of a key author in the field, or simply a single term related to your subject. There are no specialized vocabularies to learn. No complex classification systems to master.

Fact is, an ad can only hint at what's in our unconventionally organized SSCI for every user. And there's no other large-scale retrospective index you can compare it to. So if you still know little or nothing more about the SSCI than you've read here, do yourself, your staff and your clients a favor: use the coupon. Get the full story on the Social Sciences Citation Index. See for yourself if it doesn't belong in your reference service.
Emory University; $175 for noncredit participants. A certificate is awarded to those who successfully complete the institute course. Housing is available at a modest rate. For further information write to: Archives Institute, Georgia Department of Archives and History, Atlanta, GA 30334.

October 28-29: The second annual Library Microform Conference will be held at the Hyatt Regency in Atlanta, Georgia.

MISCELLANY

- The Library of Congress is observing Afro-American (Black) History Month with an exhibit of Afro-American and a showcase overview of important equal rights legislation from the last one hundred years.

The exhibit, "Aspects of Black American History and Culture," pays tribute to Afro-Americans and their contributions in the fields of public service, civil rights, education, literature, science, military service, entertainment, and sports. Sixty photographs, prints, books, broadsides, and manuscripts arranged by these topics document black history and culture in America and the achievements of black leaders in the last one hundred years.

The earliest material in the exhibit appears in the public service section and pertains to the Reconstruction period. A lithograph of seven of the first fifteen black U.S. congressmen who served from 1870-81 is displayed with early prints of John R. Lynch, member of the House from 1873-77, and Blanche K. Bruce, senator from Mississippi from 1875-81, and an autobiographical sketch of the first black American to sit in the U.S. Senate, Hiram R. Revels. Also included is a print of John Mercer Langston, first black American chosen to an elective office, made after his election as clerk of Brownhelm Township, Ohio, in 1855.

The exhibit demonstrates the capability of black Americans in many fields. Illustrated in the science and invention section are the achievements of polar explorer Matthew A. Henson, who in 1909 accompanied Robert A. Peary to the North Pole; Lewis H. Latimer, an associate of Thomas A. Edison; Jan Ernst Matzeliger, inventor of the shoe lasting machine; and Elijah J. McCoy, inventor of lubricating machinery. The black contribution in military service to the U.S. is presented, as are achievements in entertainment and sports, through photographs of individuals whose work has been significant in these fields.

The major portion of the exhibit is devoted to the history and leaders of the civil rights movement. The work of Frederick Douglass, chief spokesman for the Negro in America until his death in 1895; Dr. Martin Luther King; and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is highlighted.

A single showcase exhibit, "Decisive Steps on the Road to Equality," discusses legislation which led to equal rights for all Americans. Although the Declaration of Independence had proclaimed the equality of all men—that is, by inference, all humankind—white women and blacks of both sexes were denied certain rights in the New Republic. Not until the last half of the nineteenth century did the government begin to take measures to end these inequalities.

The first step taken, the issuance of the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863, did not abolish the institution of slavery; it was limited, rather, to the liberation of slaves in those states designated as being in rebellion. The Thirteenth Amendment to the Constitution, ratified in 1865, ended the enslavement of black Americans, who were then guaranteed equal protection of the law in 1868 with the passage of the Fourteenth Amendment. Voting privileges were granted black men in the Fifteenth Amendment, and to women with the ratification of the Nineteenth Amendment.

Both the exhibit and the showcase can be viewed in the Library of Congress through June 30.

- The Temple University Libraries recently announced the availability of a computer-based printout on microfiche listing all its periodical holdings in the Temple University Libraries system, both current and retrospective, excluding Health Sciences and Law.

Arranged alphabetically, the data provided includes main entry, place of publication, frequency of currently received titles, holdings in the collection, location and call number, notes of various kinds including missing data, superseded notes, information on retention by the library, added copies maintained, etc.

A microfiche copy is available at $3.00 a set. Delivery may be expected within one month of receipt of the order. All orders must be prepaid. Checks should be made payable to Temple University Computer Center.

Updates will be issued on a yearly basis, early in the calendar year, and must be ordered on an individual basis, at the same cost as the original set. The updated edition entirely supersedes the older edition.

We will be pleased to consider reciprocity arrangements with libraries maintaining serials holdings records of comparable size.

Please address all orders and inquiries, including checks to: Melvyn W. Gelfand, Serials Librarian, Temple University Libraries, Philadelphia, PA 19122.

PUBLICATIONS

- The Institute of United States Studies at London University recently began publishing a regular, comprehensive bibliography of American Studies Books. The bibliography lists all books published anywhere in the world which are relevant to the study of the United States. The only categories excluded are juvenile literature and periodicals. The books listed are selected from the British National Bibliography and Library of Congress Machine Readable Cataloging services.

The bibliography is issued in four sections, each section being complete in itself and containing full cataloging information: author, title, subject, and by class according to the Dewey Decimal System.

Published on microfiche, the bibliography is issued monthly with an annual cumulation. For further information on cost and ordering, contact: University of London, Institute of United States Studies, 31 Tavistock Square, London WC1H 9EZ, England.

- A book of illustrations showing catalogers how to use the new ISBD has just been published by the Seminary Press. An Illustrated Guide to the International Standard Bibliographic Description for Monographs presents for the first time a comprehensive collection of Library of Congress cards illustrating most of the rules for descriptive cataloging in the newly revised Chapter 6, Separately Published Monographs of the Anglo-American Cataloging Rules. Compilers of the work are John L. Sayre and Roberta Hamburger, librarians at Phillips University, Enid, Oklahoma.

The rules are arranged in the same order as found in chapter 6 and are stated briefly at the right side of the page. To the left are placed one or more Library of Congress cards which illustrate that rule. A complete index to the rules is also provided. This guide should be especially helpful to catalogers and could be a valuable asset in training new staff members in the applications of the ISBD. Copies may be secured for $6.50 from the Seminary Press, Box 2218 University Station, Enid, OK 73701.

- The Reference Round Table of the Texas Library Association has published a subject guide to reference materials about Texas. Texas Reference Sources; A Selective Guide is available from Jerre Hetherington, TLA Executive Secretary, Box 505, Houston, TX 77001. The price is $7.00 (plus 35¢ tax when applicable); all orders must be prepaid.

This volume is the product of a research project undertaken in the fall of 1975 by students in David A. Anderson’s Law and Journalism Seminar at the University of Texas School of Law. The project was conducted with the cooperation of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press. A sampling of the papers: “The judge, the philosopher, and the personal privacy exemption of the FOIA (Freedom of information act); an existential search for coherence”; “The Government employee’s right to privacy and the FOIA”; “The Privacy act and the FOIA”; “Business secrets, tax dollars, and exemption 4 of the FOIA”; “Corporations receiving government largess and the FOIA”; “Public disclosure the scientific research and development”; “The FOIA and special treatment for the press.”

- Conversations on Type and Printing, 1967 is the title of an oral history memoir with the late Carroll T. Harris recently completed by the Regional Oral History Office of The Bancroft Library. The memoir deals with the career of Col. Harris (a military title earned in World War II) as a successful young employee of the Lanston Monotype Company at its headquarters in Philadelphia and later at other of its offices including San Francisco; his purchase of a partnership in the San Francisco firm that became Mackenzie & Harris, which furnished type composition and foundry type to most of the area’s fine printers; and his leadership of that firm.

  John Henry Nash, Edwin and Robert Grabhorn, James and Cecil Johnson, Henry and Edward DeWitt Taylor, Alfred B. and Lawton Kennedy, and others are recalled in the interview, as are such famed type and book designers as Frederic W. Goudy, William Edwin Rudge, Frederic Warde, Sol Hess, and Bruce Rogers.

Anecdotes and speculative discussion with interviewer Ruth Teiser shed light upon the development of the San Francisco Bay Area as a world renowned center of fine printing.

The 198-page memoir is available to scholars for research and to manuscript libraries for deposit. For further information, write the Regional Oral History Office, 486 The General Library, University of California, Berkeley 94720.
