THE CLASSIFIED ADS

Deadlines: Orders for regular classified advertisements must reach the ACRL office on or before the second of the month preceding the publication of the issue (e.g. September 2 for the October issue). Late job listings will be accepted on a space-available basis after the second of the month.

Rates: Classified advertisements are $5.00 per line for ACRL members, $6.25 for others. Late job notices are $12.00 per line for members, $14.00 for others. Organizations submitting ads will be charged according to their membership status.

Guidelines: For ads which list an application deadline, that date must be no sooner than the 20th day of the month in which the notice appears (e.g. October 20 for the October issue). All job announcements should include a salary figure. Job announcements will be edited to exclude discriminatory references. Applicants should be aware that the terms faculty rank and status vary in meaning among institutions.

JOBLINE: Call (312) 944-6795 for late-breaking job ads for academic and research library positions. A pre-recorded summary of positions listed with the service is revised weekly; each Friday a new tape includes all ads received by 1:00 p.m. the previous day. Each listing submitted will be carried on the recording for two weeks. The charge for each two-week listing is $30 for ACRL members and $35 for non-members.

TWO POSITIONS
Columbia University Libraries

The Libraries, in conjunction with the Center for Computing Activities, are transforming University information services to academic users. The Scholarly Information Center has been developed to make accessible to the user all the talent serving information needs in the University. Our online catalog, built through Columbia’s participation as an original member of RLG, has allowed us to cease most card production. A circulation component is now in preparation, and a serials control system is in planning. The catalog is one component of what will become the University’s unified information system supporting scholarly access to campus data files, national databases, textual files and library materials. The Libraries seek high quality staff with the skills to manage these dynamic changes.

Serials Cataloger/Recon Supervisor: Reporting to the Head of Serials Cataloging, this position provides original cataloging and augmented copy cataloging for serials; assists in training professional and support staff in cataloging and updating serials cataloging and holdings records; supervises serials recon projects, including supervision of staff and developing management statistical reports; participates in planning and committee work to manage the changing bibliographic environment.

Qualifications: Demonstrated aptitude for analytical and detail work; previous experience with serials and with machine-readable bibliographic databases; broad subject background; working knowledge of two western European languages (preferably German and a Romance language); accredited MLS; and the ability to supervise staff and communicate effectively with staff at all levels. Recon experience, cataloging experience and experience in a large academic or research library are desirable.

Salary ranges are: Librarian I: $22,000–$28,600; Librarian II: $24,000–$32,400.

Head, Original Monographs Cataloging Department: The OMC Head leads the unit which provides monographic original cataloging for the Columbia University Libraries system, and participates in the formulation of cataloging policy and practice in an evolving computerized environment of which the library catalog is a central part. Reporting to the Assistant Director for Bibliographic Control, this position manages all department operations including supervision of 17 professional catalogers plus support staff; plans and implements workflow changes; designs and analyzes statistics; and works with peer and client units of the Libraries. The incumbent will further the participation of catalogers in managing information access, reflecting the changing role of cataloging professionals in national cataloging programs and in the context of the Scholarly Information Center.

Qualifications: Substantial experience in a large academic library or equivalent; strong interpersonal and communication skills; sound grasp of automation and of cataloging principles and techniques; knowledge of national developments in bibliographic control; ability to work with a broad range of subjects and languages; accredited MLS or equivalent; and administrative energy and leadership as demonstrated through successful and innovative work in technical services.

Wayne State University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer.
Wayne State University Libraries invite nominations and applications for the position of Head, Science and Engineering Library (SEL).

The mission of Wayne State University is that of a national research university with an urban teaching and service commitment. Strong graduate and professional programs attract 25,000 academically gifted Michigan students as well as top international and out-of-state students. By scheduling evening and off-campus classes, the university seeks to provide coursework leading to undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees for large numbers of working, older-than-average students.

Wayne State is one of the great urban universities in an attractive setting, surrounded by museums, theaters, and corporate offices, easily accessible by several interstate freeways and from Canada. The University Libraries function in four major free standing buildings housing over 2.0 million volumes and 21,000 subscriptions. The SEL is a modern seven story building serving several colleges such as Engineering, Nursing, and Liberal Arts, including Chemistry, Physics, Astronomy, Biological Sciences, Geology and Family and Consumer Resources. A collection of 330,000 volumes and a strong journals collection is housed in SEL.

The University Libraries are ranked among the top research libraries in the United States and hold memberships in ARL, CRL, and OCLC. The University Libraries have undertaken a major and integrated automation project, which is well under way.

The Head of SEL is the senior librarian and administrative officer who provides direction, supervision and focus to the programs offered by the Library. The Head of SEL also represents the Library System to faculty and students, as well as to the community, when appropriate. The SEL programs are supported by a generous materials allocation, four FTE professional librarians and nine FTE support staff and student assistants. In addition, centrally administrated support is provided to all libraries.

The University Council serves as a member of the Library Council which serves as an administrative coordinating forum advising the Dean of Libraries on system-wide policy matters.

Qualifications and Desired Characteristics: The University Libraries seek candidates who will provide effective, creative leadership and who will advance the stature of the SEL and the library system. The ideal candidate will have an ALA-accredited Master’s degree. A second Master’s degree or doctorate is not required, but will be an asset.

The applicant should possess a distinguished professional career and a proven record of administrative accomplishments.

The applicant must also qualify for an appointment as Librarian IV with tenure in the library system. The applicant should understand and practice the principles and practices of library collection development, collection organization and good access services. A proven track record of progressively responsible professional experience will be expected.

The applicant must have a service orientation and interest in user instruction. Experience and commitment to the development of effective bibliographic instruction to all levels of library users is required.

Extensive knowledge of informational sources used to support research and instruction in the sciences and engineering fields and a broad understanding of the disciplines served by SEL and its staff is required.

Demonstrated commitment to equal opportunity/affirmative action for racial minorities and women is required.

The ability to recruit strong staff, to evaluate staff for promotion, tenure and merit salary increases is expected.

The ability to develop an effective and efficient SEL team, delegate responsibility, budget prudently, and allocate resources to meet college and university objectives is required.

The ability to work cooperatively with other units of the library system and the university and faculty is required.

Wayne State provides liberal fringe benefits, dental and health plan options, TIAA/CREF, tuition breaks to family members. Salary will be set competitive with other ARL Libraries and is negotiable based on experience and qualifications.

Send applications (with three references and a dated/signed resume) and/or nominations to: James F. Williams II, Associate Director of Libraries, 134 Purdy Library, Wayne State University, Detroit, MI 48202; Telephone: (313) 577-4021.

The position is open immediately and will remain open until filled. Applications received by February 15, 1987, will be given first consideration.

This new edition contains 9,200 unduplicated listings of university-related and other nonprofit research organizations throughout the United States and Canada. For ease of reference, RCD is arranged by major subjects, with a detailed Subject Index containing over 30,000 references under 4,000 subject headings. Also includes Alphabetical, Acronyms, Institutional, and Special Capabilities Indexes.

Government Research Directory
Fully describes about 3,000 research and development facilities operated by the United States government, including research centers, bureaus, and institutes; R&D installations; testing and experiment stations; and major research-supporting service units.

State Government Research Directory
The first comprehensive reference guide to the wealth of knowledge generated by state-supported research covers the U.S. Territories of American Samoa, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands as well as all 50 states and the District of Columbia. The 900 entries cover government agencies and bureaus that are themselves research organizations, offices that administer or coordinate research programs, resource and service units that support government research activities and much more.

International Research Centers Directory
Details on over 4,000 research centers in over 130 countries. Includes research centers operated or affiliated with government agencies and universities as well as independent nonprofit and commercial facilities in a wide range of subject areas.
