New Publications

George M. Eberhart

Birds of North America, version 2.0 (CD-ROM, Windows format), is an essential learning tool and identification guide for anyone interested in birds. This latest version contains more than 2,700 high-resolution color photos of all 917 birds seen in Canada and the United States, as well as 314 birds found elsewhere. The disk includes more than 1,200 songs, calls, and chirp notes of 695 species, taken from the Cornell Laboratory of Ornithology. The sound quality is excellent (as attested to by our two cats), especially in the higher frequencies, where the notes produced by warblers are rich, and sonograms are provided for each. Other features include: the ability to zoom in on photos; side-by-side species comparison; videos of 121 species; 185 quizzes for beginners and advanced birders; range and abundance maps for both summer and winter; 63 state and province checklists; rare bird alert phone numbers; addresses of bird clubs; and a plug-in to the encyclopedic Birder’s Handbook by Ehrlich, Dobkin, and Wheye. Free updates are provided on the Thayer Birding Software Web site at www.birding.com; these downloads will integrate seamlessly with the installed CD-ROM program. More fully featured than any other birding CD-ROM, including the Audubon and Peterson programs. $65.00. Thayer Birding Software, P.O. Box 43243, Cincinnati, OH 45243.

Getting Here: The Story of Human Evolution, by William Howells (266 pages, August 1997), describes the varying theories of how and where human beings developed from early primate stock. Writing for a nontechnical audience, Howells still delves into some weighty, yet-unanswered questions about the origin of archaic humans, the lineal relationship of Neanderthals with modern humans, the arguments for multiregional evolution versus recent-out-of-Africa theory, and the causes of racial diversity. Plentiful drawings of hominin fossils and facial reconstructions aid understanding. $36.00. Compass Press; distributed by Paul & Company, P.O. Box 442, Concord, MA 01742. ISBN 0-929590-16-3.

Is Lying Sometimes the Right Thing for an Honest Person to Do? by Quinn G. McKay (261 pages, September 1997), examines the ethical temptations and traps faced by everyone in the modern workplace. There are many shades of gray between honesty and fraud, and finding the right solution to a personal or corporate ethical dilemma can be both difficult and disastrous. McKay offers practical advice laced with many relevant examples, as well as nine suggestions for improving ethical awareness and behavior. $22.95. Executive Excellence Publishing, 1344 E. 1120 South, Provo, UT 84606. ISBN 1-890009-12-1.

Journalistic Advocates and Muckrakers: Three Centuries of Crusading Writers, by Edd Applegate (219 pages, August 1997), profiles the lives of columnists and editors who have attempted to sway public policy through their writings. Both well-known (Upton Sinclair, H. L. Mencken, Ralph Nader) and lesser-known (Benjamin Flower, Ben B. Lindsey, Paul Brodeur) journalists are included. $39.95. McFarland & Company, Box 611, Jefferson, NC 28640. ISBN 0-7864-0365-9.

George M. Eberhart is associate editor of American Libraries
If the previous book inspires you to a career as a reporter, you will find Journalism: A Guide to the Reference Literature, by Jo A. Cates (317 pages, 2d ed., June 1997), helpful. This annotated bibliography has added 252 new entries and a chapter on commercial databases and Internet sources. Directories of associations and research centers are also provided. $45.00. Libraries Unlimited, P.O. Box 6633, Englewood, CO 80155-6633. ISBN 1-56308-374-4.

The Loom of God: Mathematical Tapestries at the Edge of Time, by Clifford A. Pickover (292 pages, May 1997), consists of 21 whimsical and speculative essays that explore the links between mathematics and mysticism. Pickover, who authors the brain-boggler column in Discover magazine, explores the roles that numbers have played in Pythagorean philosophy, doomsday predictions, Druidic religion, the Incan quipu, the Kabala, and proofs of the existence of God. Each chapter begins with two time-traveling science-fiction characters who set the stage for fun with Fibonacci numbers and fractals. Equations are kept to a minimum. Science students will find this especially rewarding. $29.95. Plenum Press, 233 Spring St., New York, NY 10013-1578. ISBN 0-306-45411-4.

Mystic Healers and Medicine Shows, edited by Gene Fowler (202 pages, 1997), is a lively history of medical practitioners in the Old West. Among the 11 little-remembered healers and/or quacks are Francis Schlatter, the Rasputin-like healer of New Mexico; J. I. Lighthall, the Diamond King, whose medicine show in the 1880s offered cures as well as entertainment; William Kroeger, the priest-healer of Epiphany, South Dakota; and the Milling Brothers, magnetic healers of north Texas. A bibliographic essay follows each chapter, and two appendixes provide medical formulas for such concoctions as tincture of rhubarb and stomach bitters. $27.95. Ancient City Press; distributed by Johnson Books, 1880 S. 57th Ct., Boulder, CO 80301. ISBN 0-941270-94-7.

Olive Branch and Sword: The United States and Mexico, 1845–1848, by Dean B. Mahin (233 pages, April 1997), focuses less on the military history of the Mexican War and more on the diplomatic maneuvering engaged in by the Polk administration. It contains the first detailed account of U.S. Peace Commissioner Nicholas P. Trist’s peace mission to Mexico in 1847 and Polk’s reaction to the mission. According to Mahin, Trist was the only man who singlehandedly ended a major American war; his efforts ultimately limited the scope of the controversy over slavery in territories acquired from Mexico and paved the way for the compromises of the 1850s that deferred civil war for a decade. $34.50. McFarland & Company, Box 611, Jefferson, NC 28640. ISBN 0-7864-0258-X.

Two recent books published by Greenwood Press covering other American wars are The American Civil War: A Handbook of Literature and Research, edited by Steven E. Woodworth (751 pages, January 1997), which offers 40 literature surveys on specific aspects of the war from causation to reconstruction ($99.50, ISBN 0-313-29019-9), and Historical Dictionary of the Spanish American War, by Donald H. Dyal (376 pages, 1996), which provides descriptions of individuals, battles, places, ships, weapons, and other particulars of the conflict ($89.50, ISBN 0-313-28852-6).

People’s Names, by Holly Ingraham (613 pages, January 1997), is a comprehensive directory of more than 40,000 personal and family names in more than 100 cultures from ancient times to the present. But this volume goes far beyond a mere listing; Ingraham intends this to be a guide for writers of fiction who need to select names for characters as well as understand how they are structured and pronounced. Need a Belarusian female name? Try Rahniada Kaspiorovich. A Zimbabwean male? Matope Sibanda. A Colombian drug dealer? Refugio Pinilla. A male Viking name from the ninth century? Brynjar Lodbrok. An ancient Celtic female? Cacudia. Sticklers for accuracy will want to carry this book around with them to movies; others will find it valuable in many other contexts. The author even includes tips on manufacturing names in an imaginary language. $65.00. McFarland & Company, Box 611, Jefferson, NC 28640. ISBN 0-7864-0187-7.
Journal of Internet Cataloging devoted to library innovations in the network environment

Co-Editors: Ruth C. Carter, PhD, MA, MS, and Roger Brisson

“PACKED WITH PRACTICAL, INFORMATIVE ARTICLES DIRECTED AT LIBRARIANS AND OTHER INFORMATION PROFESSIONALS ... this new journal is a welcome addition.”

Barry B. Baker, MLS, Assistant Director for Technical Services, University of Georgia Libraries, Athens, Georgia

This new journal informs librarians and systems personnel of current information on the rapidly evolving world of providing access to electronic materials available via the Internet.

Visit the JIC web page at http://www.libraries.psu.edu/iasweb/personal/rob/jic.htm

Volume 1, No. 1—Spring 1997.
Subscription rates (per volume): Libraries: $65

Humanities Collections

Editor: Robin Kinder, PhD, MLS

A forum for issues of concern in the field of humanities, Humanities Collections alerts you to research in progress, use of humanities collections, timely collection development issues, books of note in various disciplines of the humanities, and contemporary issues of concern, such as government funding of the humanities.

Volume 1, No. 1—Spring 1997.
Subscription rates (per volume): Libraries: $65

Internet Reference Services Quarterly

a journal of innovative information practice, technologies & resources

Editor: Lyn Elizabeth M. Martin, MLS

"A PRINT MAP FOR EXPLORING THE REFERENCE QUADRANT OF THE INTERNET UNIVERSE ... Will serve as a guide for those librarians and information scientists who are redefining libraries and library services."

James W. Galloway, PhD, Assistant Director of Libraries for Research Services, Texas Woman's University

This vital new journal highlights theoretical research and the practical application of Internet-related information services, sources, and resources.

Visit the IRSQ Web page at http://www.cobleskill.edu/service/lrc/irsq

Volume 1, No. 1—Spring 1997.
Subscription rates (per volume): Libraries: $48

Health Care on the Internet

a journal of methods & applications

Editor: Eric P. Delozier, MLS

Associate Editor: M. Sandra Wood, MLS, MBA

"I would like to congratulate the editors for taking the initiative to provide this much-needed resource. ... Health Care on the Internet will provide a quality filter for Internet resources."

Kathleen A. Moeller, MLS, AHIP, Director of Library and Research Services, Atlantic Health System—Overlook Hospital Campus, New Jersey

Health Care on the Internet is the first professional journal devoted to showing you the myriad of consumer, personal, and community health care information sources available on the Internet.

Visit the web site of Health Care on the Internet at http://www.lib.hmc.psu.edu/hci/hci.htm

Volume 1, No. 1—Spring 1997.
Subscription rates (per volume): Libraries: $85

The Haworth Press, Inc.
10 Alice Street, Binghamton, NY 13904-1580
Tel: 1-800-HAWORTH • Fax: 1-800-895-0582
E-mail: gelinfo@haworth.com