ISTP Search.

Every day, at conferences and proceedings around the world, important papers are being presented. Important because they're often the first place where research results are reported. Important because they give you vital information, like who's performing significant work...where they're working...and the results of their research.

Proceedings names and locations can't give you this information. Bibliographic data on the individual papers can.

Search the only multidisciplinary online database that indexes the proceedings literature at the paper level. ISTP Search.
