Margaret E. Auer, director of libraries at the University of Detroit Mercy, was named Distinguished Alumna of the Year by the Library Science Program at Wayne State University (WSU) at its 15th Annual Alumni Update in March. She was selected for her outstanding contributions to effective and improved library service, dedicated work with library professional associations, and involvement in continuing education programming. In her career, Auer has also served as associate director for public services, media librarian, and education librarian. She received her MLS from WSU in 1972.

Susan Crawford, professor of biomedical communication and director of the Library and Biomedical Communications Center at Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, Missouri, has received two awards from the Medical Library Association: the President's Award and the Marcia C. Noyes Award. The President's Award is given annually to an individual who has made exceptional contributions which have enhanced the profession; the Noyes Award, the association's highest honor, recognizes an individual with lasting and outstanding achievements. The awards cite Crawford's "universal contributions to the profession in the areas of service, research, and publishing" which have given stature and credibility to health sciences libraries on both the national and international levels.

Peter Jermann, preservation officer in St. Bonaventure University's Friedsam Memorial Library, New York, received a patent for the new binder he designed to secure magazines and other documents. There's a catch to Jermann's version of the binder. In fact, the catch is in the catch itself. Two adjustable straps wrap around the binder and tightly secure documents when fastened. Unlike conventional binders, Jermann's fastener allows the binder to adjust to the exact thickness of the enclosed items, which can easily be inserted or removed, and the binder closes tightly so it can be shelved just like a book.

Carolyn Sheehy, director of library services at North Central College, Naperville, Illinois, has been elected vice-president/president-elect of LIBRAS, a consortium of 17 private college libraries in the greater Chicago area formed to promote interlibrary cooperation.

Kristine Swank, acquisitions/reference librarian at the American Graduate School of International Management (Thunderbird), Glendale, Arizona, has been selected as the 1992/93 recipient of the Horner Fellowship. Given annually by the Arizona State Library Association, the fellowship promotes the exchange of ideas between Arizona and Japanese libraries. Swank will visit the business libraries in Osaka and Tokyo in the fall of 1992.

Appointments

(Appointment notices are taken from library newsletters, letters from personnel offices and appointees, and other sources. To ensure that your appointment appears, write to the Editor, C&RL News, 50 E. Huron, Chicago, IL 60611-2795.)

Arthur Downing has been named academy librarian and director of information resources for the New York Academy of Medicine and director of Region I of the National Network of Libraries of Medicine. Downing received his MLS from Rutgers University and is currently in the linguistics program at New York University. After holding several public services positions at the Kilmer Area Library at Rutgers, he joined the staff of the Academy in 1985 as manager of the corporate fee-based services program. He was appointed acting associate librarian in late 1990, then served as acting librarian.
throughout 1991. The author of many professional articles, Downing is an active member of ALA and the Medical Library Association, is on the Board of Trustees of the Medical Library Center of New York, and is an advisory member to the New York Medical Society.

Ellen S. Dunlap, director of the Rosenbach Museum & Library of Philadelphia, has been selected to serve as president of the American Antiquarian Society following the retirement of Marcus A. McCorison in October 1992. Dunlap holds a B.A. and an MLS from the University of Texas. Her eight-year term of office at the Rosenbach has been marked by effective long-range planning, successful collaboration with other cultural institutions in the area, a broad range of community outreach activities, and achievement in fundraising.

Joanne Euster, vice-president for university libraries at Rutgers University, has been appointed university librarian at the University of California, Irvine. Before joining Rutgers in 1986, Euster served as library director at San Francisco State University from 1980–1986, and as university librarian at Loyola University in New Orleans from 1977–1980. She received her bachelor’s degree from Portland State College in Oregon, her master’s from the University of Washington, and her Ph.D. from the University of California, Berkeley. She has been active in professional associations and served as president of ACRL from 1986–87.

Sarah M. Pritchard, associate executive director of the Association of Research Libraries (ARL), has been named director of libraries at Smith College, Northampton, Massachusetts, effective in August. Pritchard has more than 15 years of experience in library services. She worked in various positions at the Library of Congress from 1977 to 1990, serving first as a reference librarian and specialist in women’s studies, then as head of the Microform Reading Room Section. She served from 1988 to 1989 as an academic library management intern at Princeton University, and assumed her current post at ARL in 1990. Pritchard has written many articles for professional and educational publications, and is currently an elected member of the ALA Council. She earned her B.A. in French from the University of Maryland, and holds M.A. degrees in French and library science from the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Carole Armstrong has been named assistant director for public services and head of science at the Michigan State University Libraries.

Jim Blanchard joined the University of Manitoba Libraries as head of the Reference Services Section in the Elizabeth Dafoe Library.

Allan Bosch has been named head of the Humanities/Social Sciences Libraries at the Washington State University Libraries, Pullman.

Kathlyn A. Bowersox is now serials cataloger and assistant professor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Anna Bryan has been appointed senior assistant librarian in the Bibliographic Control Department at the University of Delaware, Newark.

Carole Burke has been named interlibrary loan librarian at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa.

Donna G. Burrow is now systems officer at the Indiana University Libraries, Bloomington.

Loretta Caren has been named associate director for public services at Michigan State University Library, East Lansing.

Thomas Childers’s new title at Drexel University, Philadelphia, is Alice B. Kroeger Professor of Information Studies.

Annie Cooper has been named coordinator for social science collection development at the Michigan State University Libraries.

Katherine Corby joined the Michigan State University Library, East Lansing, as social science reference librarian.

Martin Courtois is now electronic reference services coordinator at the Michigan State University Libraries.

Janet DeForest has been named assistant government documents librarian at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa.

Carlos R. Delgado has been appointed librarian for the Spanish and Portuguese collections at the University of California, Berkeley.

Anna DeMille has been appointed head of the Social Sciences/Humanities Department at the Colorado State University Libraries.

Clay Dixon has been named catalog librarian in the Missouri Newspaper Project at the University of Missouri-Kansas City Libraries.

Jean Eaglesfield is now coordinator of collection development for sciences at the Michigan State University Libraries.

Nancy H. Evans has been named head of the Penn State Ogontz Campus Library.

Jannette Fiore has been named associate director for collection management at the Michigan State University Libraries.

Kathryn S. Ginanni has been named serials librarian in the University Library at Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Virginia.

Patricia Glasson has been appointed monographs cataloger at Wichita State University, Kansas.

Gisele Glover is now music cataloger at the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Rhonna Goodman has been named associate librarian for development at the New York Academy of Medicine.

Clifford H. Haka is now assistant director for administrative services at the Michigan State University Libraries.

C. David Hickey has been appointed head of the Circulation Department at Slippery Rock University Library, Pennsylvania.

Talbott Huey has been named collection management coordinator for international studies at the Michigan State University Libraries.

Ruth Ann Jones joined the Michigan State University Library, East Lansing, as an information reference librarian.

Elaine F. Jurries has been named coordinator of serials services at the Auraria Library, University of Colorado, Denver.

Michelle M. Klemz has been appointed catalog librarian at the University of Michigan-Dearborn’s Mardigian Library.

Joseph Laframboise has been appointed data archivist at Penn State University Libraries, University Park.

Laura Lane has been named science bibliographer in the Collection Development Department at the Temple University Libraries, Philadelphia.

Carol Lang has been promoted to coordinator of the Science Libraries at Temple University, Philadelphia.

Stephen Leary is now reference librarian at the University of San Francisco.

Carl Lee has been named associate director for systems and access services at the Michigan State University Libraries.

G. Richard Lezenby has been promoted to coordinator of library instruction, Reference and Information Services Department at the Temple University Libraries, Philadelphia.

Mary McMahon has been named assistant director for library computing systems at the University of Delaware, Newark.

Suzanne McMahon has been appointed serials librarian at Stanford University, California.

Karen M. Mason has been appointed the first curator of the Iowa Women’s Archives at the University of Iowa, Iowa City.

Byron Mayes has been appointed assistant librarian in the Library Computing Systems at the University of Delaware, Newark.

Terry Metz has been appointed systems support and instruction librarian at Carleton College, Northfield, Minnesota.

Timothy Murray has been named head of the Special Collections Department at the University of Delaware, Newark.

Rachael Naismith has been appointed coordinator of reference services at the University of Missouri-Kansas City Libraries.

Marian Parker has been named director of the Law Library and professor of law at New York University, New York City.

Lila Pedersen has been named director of the Harley E. French Library of the Health Sciences at the University of North Dakota School of Medicine, Grand Forks.

Brenda Pfannenstiel is now clinical medical/reference librarian at the University of Missouri-Kansas City Libraries.

Robert Quartell is now humanities reference librarian at Michigan State University Library, East Lansing.

Keir Reavie is now reference librarian at the Medical Library of the University of Manitoba.

Tommy Richardson is now senior assistant librarian in the Bibliographic Department at the University of Delaware, Newark.
Ophelia G. Roop is now associate librarian and head of the Herron School of Art Library at Indiana University, Bloomington.

Sara Scott is now humanities catalog librarian and university archivist at Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green.

Minna Sellers has been named biomedical sciences/veterinary medicine librarian at the Colorado State University Libraries.

Nancy Sheffield-Warman has been named cataloger at the William Paterson College Library, Wayne, New Jersey.

Brian Shovers has been appointed cataloger for archives and manuscripts, Special Collections Department at the Temple University Libraries, Philadelphia.

Dianne Stalker has been named preservation librarian at the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Carla J. Stoflle’s new title at the University of Arizona, Tucson, is dean of university libraries.

Samuel Stormont has been named coordinator of computerized reference services in the Reference and Information Services Department at the Temple University Libraries, Philadelphia.

Christine Thompson is now head of cataloging at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa.

Mary Ann Tyrrell has been appointed collection management preservation librarian at the Michigan State University Libraries.

John Webb has been appointed assistant director for library automation at Washington State University Libraries, Pullman.

Sharon Wiles-Young has been appointed serials manager in Lehigh University’s Linderman Library, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania.

Harold Borko retired as professor at the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, University of California, Los Angeles, in June 1992. Appointed to that position in 1968, Borko was instrumental in creating courses that taught the principles and practice of automating various library activities. He is an associate editor of the journal Information Processing and Management and the consulting editor for library and information science books for Academic Press. Two of his books—Abstracting Concepts and Methods and Indexing Concepts and Methods—have been used as textbooks, and he has published over 35 articles and contributed chapters to over 38 books. Borko received his B.A. in psychology from UCLA in 1948, his M.A. in psychometrics from the University of Southern California (USC) in 1949, and his Ph.D. in psychology from USC in 1952. In 1988 he received the Outstanding Information Science Teaching Award given jointly by the American Society for Information Science and the Institute for Scientific Information.

Ellen Rudolph, gifts librarian at Indiana University for 17 years, recently retired from that position.

Tony Shipps, English and American literature librarian at Indiana University (IU), Bloomington, recently retired after 25 years of service. Shipps received a Ph.D. in English from Northwestern University and an MLS from Michigan. He served as head of reference at the University of Colorado for several years before writing to IU to inquire about a position, saying, “I don’t know anything, but I have several degrees.”

Retirements

Roy E. Barnes, serials librarian at the University of Toledo (UT) Libraries, has retired and been awarded the rank of professor emeritus after 35 years of service. Barnes served in the Marines during the Korean War, then received his bachelor’s degree in 1957 from UT. He added a master’s in education in 1962 and an education specialist degree in 1983. He has been responsible for the periodical and serial collection at UT for his entire tenure there, and has seen it grow from several hundred titles to over 7,000.

Advertisements index