ACQUISITIONS

- The Holmes Book Company has presented a collection of fine California printing to the COSUMNES RIVER COLLEGE library, Sacramento, California. The printing collection, consisting of books and ephemeral materials, is considered to be a rare and unique example of the graphic arts. Represented in the collection are such distinguished California printing establishments as the Grabborn Press, John Henry Nash, Ward Ritchie, The Book Club of California, and the Eucalyptus Press. The collection includes such scarce works as excerpts from the Great Polyglot Bible printed in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin, which includes pages from the Complutensian of Acala (1514–1517).

- The Purdue University libraries have received the books and papers of Llewellyn M. K. Boelter which were presented to the university by Mrs. Boelter on April 21, 1971. Dean Boelter was well known for his research in heat transfer. First recognition came in the 1920s with the development of the Dittus-Boelter equations. Later in his career he came to Purdue University as a visiting professor in the School of Engineering and in 1957 he received an honorary doctorate in Engineering from Purdue University. Dean Boelter's publications make up an impressive list. Included in the gift collection are fifty-four of his reports and one hundred four of his publications and articles, some of which were authored with collaborators. The collection contains approximately five hundred eighty volumes from his personal library of technically oriented books, thirty-six proceedings from various symposia, two file boxes of progress reports on research projects, four file boxes of lecture notes, and other papers from Dean Boelter's files. A catalog of the Llewellyn M. K. Boelter Collection has been prepared; a copy is available by sending a request to Helen Q. Schroyer, Archives Assistant, Purdue University Libraries, Lafayette, IN 47907.

- On his retirement in June 1970, after twenty-two years of teaching Spanish literature at Kansas University, Professor Domingo Ricart presented to the UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS libraries a collection of some five hundred books. These were largely concerned with Catalan language and literature, a subject with which Professor Ricart was intimately associated.

Among the antiquarian items of note are the 1546 Lyons edition of Adversos omnes Haereses by Alfonso de Castro, Obras de don Francisco de Quevedo, Brussels 1660, and a copy of Michael Verino's Modo para vivir eternamente... published in Madrid in 1710. However, the bulk of the collection consists of nineteenth- and twentieth-century imprints, and includes works of such important figures as Ramon Lull, thirteenth-century philosopher, moralist, and poet; Joanot Martorell, fifteenth-century, author of Tirant Lo Blan, a famous novel of chivalry; Ausias March, fifteenth-century, greatest Catalan poet, influenced by Dante and Petrarch; Jacint Verdaguer (1845-1902) and Joan Maragall (1860-1911), poets, major figures of the nineteenth-century renaissance; and Josep Pla (1895— ), probably the most important contemporary prose writer.

- The personal library of the late Howard M. Lebow has been given to the UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS through the generosity of his mother, Mrs. Carlton Lebow of West New York, New Jersey. Lebow was an assistant professor of music at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst when his outstanding career as a concert pianist was ended by a fatal automobile accident in January of 1968. The collection, numbering over 5,000 items, is primarily of keyboard music and includes many unusual early editions, a reflection of Lebow's taste and discrimination as a musician and enthusiastic collector. The collection will be established as the Howard Lebow Memorial Collection in the new Fine and Performing Arts Center, currently under construction at the university.

- Some 2,500 autograph letters and manuscripts and over 750 books relating to the Rossetti family (particularly poet and painter Dante Gabriel Rossetti) and the Pre-Raphaelite circle, representing the literary holdings of what has been termed "the outstanding private Pre-Raphaelite collection," are now available to scholars in the PRINCETON UNIVERSITY library.

The collection has been purchased from Mrs. Janet Camp Troxell, of New Haven, Connecticut, considered one of the leading contemporary authorities on the Rossettis. This notable acquisition has been made possible by six major benefactors of the library: three members of the Council of the Friends of The Princeton University Library together with the Eberhard L. Faber Foundation; the John E. Annan Fund of the University's Department of English; and the late Christian A. Zabriskie of New York City. The three members of the Library Friends, well-known collectors who over
UPDATES THE 1909 CHECKLIST AND OTHER BASIC REFERENCE TOOLS USED BY DOCUMENTS LIBRARIANS

Here’s how the two standard reference books on U.S. Government documents evaluate the Public Documents Library, its collection, the SuDocs Classification scheme, and the need for updating the predecessors of Checklist ’70.

“There is probably no complete collection of government publications in existence, but the one in the Public Documents Library is probably the most nearly complete...it has all issues listed in the Monthly Catalog and the biennial Documents Catalog. It also has some material not so listed, as back issues are often sent to the library after the catalogs are printed.”

“The Library of the Office of Superintendent of Documents is of interest to librarians...because of the classification scheme by which its collection is arranged. It has been adopted by many other libraries throughout the country as a most convenient and satisfactory method of organizing and arranging collections of government publications.

“There have been three checklists of government publications. The third, which was much more inclusive and a monumental work of incalculable value covering the entire period of United States publications to 1909...was published in 1911.

“A fourth edition, bringing the third edition to date, is the aid to government publications most needed by librarians.”

CUMULATIVE SUPPLEMENTS WILL UPDATE THE COLLECTION

Thanks to GPO’s full cooperation, we are also able to offer subscriptions to a service which will update the shelf lists semiannually in dual-media cumulative supplements. The microfilm portion will include all new entries added to the shelf lists after the 1970 cut-off date. They will be filmed in SuDocs Classification order, and the accumulated files issued semiannually until such a time as the entire shelf lists will be re-filmed in one sequence. The four indexes will be issued in paperback supplements and accumulated along with the card files.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC DATA ON MORE THAN 1.5 MILLION U.S. GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS

Now available to librarians for the first time in any format. As stated by Carper W. Buckley, who until his retirement in 1970 had served as U.S. Superintendent of Documents since 1953.

"Checklist '70 provides librarians with the most comprehensive single source of published information about United States Government documents. It lists all titles which appear in the shelf lists of the Public Documents Library of the U.S. Government Printing Office, covering the period 1861 through October 1970. Also included are the publications listed in the Checklist of U.S. Public Documents, 1789-1909, the Monthly Catalog and Mary Elizabeth Poole's Documents Office Classification to 1966."

In addition to containing bibliographic citations and SuDocs Classification numbers for the publications mentioned above, Checklist '70 also contains references to thousands of publications which held security classifications when originally published and therefore did not appear in any lists or bibliographies. Most of these which were later declassified and added to the Public Documents Library's shelf lists were never picked up retrospectively in the standard bibliographic reference tools.

Each citation is at least as complete as the entries in the Monthly Catalog and often provides more information. For instance, bibliographic data on each issue of certain periodicals are included, as well as complete cross-references for changes in classification numbers, titles, or issuing agencies. Cutterized separates are listed for some series publications.

Now Available in 16 and 35mm.
the years have helped strengthen the resources of the Princeton library, are Robert H. Taylor (Princeton 1930), a resident of Princeton, chairman of the Friends; Levering Cartwright (Princeton 1926) of Chicago, Illinois; and Daniel Maggin of New York City.

The Rossetti Collection of Janet Camp Troxell features letters from and to Dante Gabriel Rossetti; many of his autograph manuscripts; manuscripts of two biographies about him by Sir Hall Caine and by Henry Treffry Dunn; copies of virtually every important edition of his poems; manuscripts by and letters from Christina Rossetti; and letters to and from William Rossetti. Also included are numerous letters from and/or to Sir Edward Burne-Jones, Ford Madox Brown, Coventry Patmore, William Bell Scott, Algernon Charles Swinburne, the bookselling firm of F. S. Ellis, Jane Morris, Robert Browning, and others related to Pre-Raphaelitism. Rossetti’s art work is not included.

GRANTS

- New research is starting in Loughborough University of Technology, Loughborough, England on speeding up the way scientists can find information about their subjects. The Office for Scientific and Technical Information has made a grant to the university of £39,319, spread over three years, to investigate the automated retrieval of information. The project involves experimentation with the merging of information, particularly that covering several subjects, using magnetic tapes, computer programs, and a wide variety of information sources. Developments could be very rapid availability of up-to-date statements of knowledge in a particular subject, as well as the possibility of delving deeply but quickly into past records.

One of the models to be used is the successful Particle Science and Technology Information Service run by the Chemical Engineering Department of the university, established in the last two years, which now feeds information to subscribers at home and abroad. The project will experiment on how computer programs can extend the flow of information to the service from such areas as the medical and industrial fields. Further work will also continue on the automation of library administrative processes.

The project will be led by Dr. A. J. Evans, university librarian and president of the International Association of Technological University Libraries. The research team will include both computer and information scientists.

- The Ohio College Library Center, located at Ohio State University, has received a grant of $125,000 to continue developing a computerized regional library system. The grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare covers an eighteen-month period. Three services are to be supported by the grant: the system for loaning books, a regional catalog system of journals and other periodicals, and a record system of the progress of new acquisitions through the cataloging system.

The regional system will also be available through telephone line to users from the Cooperative College Library Center in Atlanta, Georgia. The OCLC will catalog the Atlanta center’s listings for eighteen black colleges.

- The University of Texas Southwestern Medical School at Dallas will study the feasibility of centralized book processing involving the medical components of the UT system. Dr. Donald Hendricks, UTS Medical School library director, said a $27,368 grant from the National Library of Medicine would enable researchers to study purchasing, cataloging, and processing of books in a cooperative venture. The library at UTS Medical School, with approximately 100,000 volumes, and the other existing or developing collections in the system will be used as a basis for a mathematical model which will test the proposal’s potential. Graduate students from the UT Library School at Austin will participate in the research.

- The University of Kansas libraries have received a grant of $10,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from funds appropriated under the Higher Education Act of 1965, Title II, Part A (P.L. 89-329, as amended), Special Purpose Type B. This grant of $10,000 from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare covers an eighteen-month period. Three services are to be supported by the grant: the system for loaning books, a regional catalog system of journals and other periodicals, and a record system of the progress of new acquisitions through the cataloging system.

MEETINGS

A wholly new encyclopedia, unlike any other you may now have.

And, unlike any other specialized encyclopedia, this one belongs in the general reference collection of all libraries.

Encyclopaedia Judaica

With the publication of this major new work, a whole world of insights with application to all current concerns on all subjects, has been opened. No research on human affairs can now be considered complete that does not take these insights into account.

A new source of essential information

Judaica places before us all important facts about the past 5000 years of people, places, concepts, things and events, from the perspective of the world's only ancient civilization vitally extant. For the fact is no people has had and continues to have a more profound influence on all human thought and activity than the Jews.

Judaica makes available to all, for the first time in a single source, hundreds of thousands of facts on a "new" side of history that serves to illuminate all of today's major issues and interests.

A new way of looking at today

From Judaica, we discover a new way to look at topical concerns such as the Arabs and the Israelis, emerging nations, urbanization. Minority problems and racial tensions; integration, segregation, apartheid. Civil Rights. Women. Labor relations. Interfaith marriage, adoption, abortion, sex. Judaica offers many new or little known facts on familiar subjects as far-ranging as Family Living and Philosophy and Russia and Demographic Shifts.

A new way of looking at the past

Judaica is a treasury of information on Biblical history and on our common Judeo-Christian heritage, rewritten in the light of the great archaeological and other scientific findings of the past few decades. The entries in this subject field are outstanding.

Useful at many levels of research

Judaica is scholarly, objective, authoritative; the definitive work in its field. Nonetheless, it manages to be completely fascinating, easy to read, and easy to use. All libraries will find it a valuable acquisition. There are numerous reader aids, including: an Index Volume containing 250,000 entries; copious cross references; selective bibliographies; thousands of illustrations; and others. Many of the special articles are book length; the classic pieces among them will be referred to constantly over the years.

PUBLICATIONS

- Libraries, subscriptions agencies, and other organizations concerned with information han-duling will benefit from the new American National Standard Identification Number for Serial Publications, Z39.9-1971. The new standard, just published by ANSI, sets up a concise, unique, and unambiguous code for identifying serials—periodicals, newspapers, reports, yearbooks, journals, proceedings, transactions, etc.

The standard specifies that one eight-digit code number be assigned permanently to each serial. It also recognizes that the assignment of code numbers should be administered by a central authority. The Library of Congress has agreed to undertake this responsibility, subject to the availability of the necessary funds.

American National Standard Z39.9-1971 defines a serial, specifies the code's format and characteristics, and stipulates how it should be applied. It is available from ANSI at $2.25 per copy.

- The Black Experience in the United States, a bibliography published by the San Fernando Valley State College Foundation, has been recommended to college libraries in the spring 1971 issue of College Library Notes for the College President.

The book, compiled by Dennis C. Bakewell, social sciences bibliographer in the San Fernando Valley State College Library, is one of eleven titles suggested as book selection tools for libraries interested in building black studies collections in an article, "Establishing Black Collections for Black Studies," by Ann Allen Shockley, associate librarian at Fisk University.

The Black Experience in the United States, which began as a project by the library as a service to the students and faculty of San Fernando Valley State College, grew to the point where it was felt that we should not limit its distribution to San Fernando Valley State College. Consequently, we are making it available to others.

It contains approximately 3,175 entries; arrangement is by subject (Library of Congress classification); author index; price is $12.00; printed by Anderson, Ritchie, and Simon (The Ward Ritchie Press); distributed by Richard Abel & Company, 1506 Gardena St., Glendale, California 91204; LC 74-136287.

- The University of Illinois Graduate School of Library Science has recently published monograph no.11, Education for Librarianship: The Design of the Curriculum of Library Schools. This volume, edited and introduced by Herbert Goldhor, Director, Graduate School of Library Science, University of Illinois, results from the university's fourth conference on education for librarianship which was held in the fall of 1970.

The formulation of a curriculum for a professional school with preparation for changes of the future is a difficult problem. Several of the papers in this volume give help to those who face this general problem; the balance of the papers deal with the curriculum for specific areas of library education. Contributors are from all areas of library education and are of varying ages.

This 195-page indexed volume is available from the Illini Union Bookstore, 715 S. Wright St., Champaign, Illinois 61820, at a cost of $4.00 (hardback only). Back issues of the monograph series may be ordered and standing orders placed through the above address. LC: 78-633332 (volume); ISBN: 0-87845-033-5.

- A new film titled, The Library of the Future, and recently previewed at the American Library Association convention in Dallas, is now available on free loan from the Remington Rand Library Bureau Division of Sperry Rand Corporation. The 16mm color film includes a soundtrack and runs ten minutes.

This interesting film touches on some common problems in today's library and how, through the use of new systems, these problems can readily be solved. The four systems featured are a book-theft detection system, a system for conserving valuable library floor space, an automatic book-retrieval system, and a unique system for storing and retrieving microfilmed reference material.

For more information about the film and where a copy may be obtained, write to Remington Rand Library Bureau Division, 801 Park Ave., Herkimer, New York 13350, or contact the nearest Remington Rand Library Bureau office.
