Yale University has been awarded a Title II-C grant of $400,000 by the U.S. Office of Education to undertake a joint project with Cornell and Stanford University Libraries, the Hoover Institution, and the Research Libraries Group. The goal is to design and implement enhancements to RLIN that will facilitate the acquisition, cataloging, and management of manuscript and archival materials. The development of a standard bibliographic exchange format will enable Cornell, Stanford, and Yale to integrate their manuscript and archival holdings into RLIN, thereby creating the foundation for a national database. Project activities in 1983 will include determining cataloging standards; establishing guidelines for authority control; and producing user documentation for dissemination to other RLG institutions.

NEWS NOTES

- The National Agricultural Library, Beltsville, Maryland, has signed a cooperative agreement with the Land Tenure Center Library at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, to provide a machine-readable record of that library’s monographic holdings and indexed journal literature. The Land Tenure Center Library is a unique resource collection and provides information services specializing in agricultural development, agrarian reform, and rural development, particularly in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. The project will take from six to nine months for conversion and will be available as an adjunct file of AGRICOLA or in separate tapes for use by other computerized systems.

- The New York Public Library opened the doors of its Central Research Library and Annex to the public on January 6, the first Thursday since 1975, thanks to challenge grants from Chase Manhattan Bank and historian Barbara W. Tuchman. Only the busiest units, including the General Research, Economic & Public Affairs, and Microforms Divisions, will be open on Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

PROFILES

Marie Elena Korey has been appointed head of the Rare Book Department of the Free Library of Philadelphia, effective in January. She replaces Howell Heaney who has retired after more than 25 years with the Free Library.

Korey, formerly curator of printed books at the Library Company of Philadelphia, is a graduate of Chestnut Hill College with an MLS from Drexel University. Among her writings for national journals are: “Philadelphia Book Collectors” in the American Book Collector and a profile of the Library Company for the Wilson Library Bulletin. With librarian Edwin Wolf she co-edited “A Quarter of a Millenium,” an exhibition celebrating the Library Company’s 25th anniversary.

Korey currently serves as secretary of ACRL’s Rare Book and Manuscript Section. She has also served on the Nominating Committee of the Bibliographic Society of America and is vice president for programs of the American Printing History Association.

James H. May has been named dean of information services at California State University, Chico, effective February 1. He has served since 1974 as associate library director at Sonoma State University. He has a doctorate in library science from Columbia University (1978), an MBA from Harvard, and a bachelor’s in civil engineering from Stanford University.

May has worked with a New York international business consulting firm; spent six years in top management posts with Pandex, Inc., a subsidiary of Macmillan Publishing Company; served as director of the Center for Communication and Information Research at the University of Denver; and acted as a consultant for Information Access Corporation. He was a vice president and director of the Santa Rosa Computer Center, and has been active in NASA communications technology satellite work.
In 1977 May was chair of the San Francisco Bay Area Chapter of the American Society for Information Science. He currently serves as vice president of the American Indian Library Association, and is a member of the ALA Subcommittee on Library Service for American Indian People and the ALA Library and Information Technology Association's Technical Standards for Library Automation Committee.

Following his graduation from the University of Maryland, Scully joined the Arlington County (Virginia) Public Library System as a reference librarian. In July 1971 he became a librarian in the Technical Services Division of the National Library of Medicine. Scully entered government service in November 1973 when he became technical services librarian for the Consumer Product Safety Commission, where he was promoted to library director in June 1977.

In 1980 he transferred to the General Accounting Office as an automated data processing administrator, becoming a technical information specialist there a year later.

Prayer of the Junior Faculty

Our Chancellor who art in Power, hallowed by your term,
May the Endowment come for us from Rockefeller,
Carnegie, Hewlitt-Packard, and Alums.
Give us this year our tenured chairs,
And forgive us the books that are not quite finished,
As we forgive the bastards who got tenure without them.
Lead us not into publishing before we are certain,
And deliver us from perishing.
For yours (and the senior faculty's) is the University and the Power,
And all we want is a job—well maybe a little glory—
For Ever and Ever.

RETIREMENTS

RUSSELL G. BURGHARDT retired last fall as chief of the Serials Division at the City College of the City University of New York, a position he had held since 1963. He came to the City College Library in 1947 after completing course and residence requirements for the Ph.D. in Latin at Johns Hopkins University, serving as a commissioned field artillery officer in 1942-1946, and receiving his library science degree at Columbia University.

NORMAN DUDLEY retired October 31 as assistant university librarian for collection development at the University of California, Los Angeles, after 18 years in the library profession.

MARY LOUISE GLADISH, biomedical research services librarian at the Vanderbilt Medical Center Library, Nashville, has retired after 18 years of service.

GWENDOLYN GRAY, serials cataloger in the Serial Record Division of the Library of Congress, retired on October 15 after 30 years of federal service.

LOUISE MCGWIGAN HALL retired as head of the Humanities Reference Department at the University of North Carolina on February 1, a post she has held since 1958. Her expertise in classical studies qualified her for a 6-month appointment as acting librarian at the American School of Classical Studies at Athens in 1966. She was also instrumental in planning for the library’s support of the first Southeastern Institute of Medieval and Renaissance Studies in 1965. Hall earned a bachelor's in library science in 1941 at the University of North Carolina and an MLS in 1944 from the University of Illinois. From 1943 to 1947 she worked in the U.S. Army Map Service, returning to North Carolina as a reference librarian in 1947.

ROBERT PFEIFFER, head of the Humanities/Social Sciences Library Group at the University of California, Berkeley, retired in December after 22 years of service to the university. Pfeiffer had been active in ACRL's Anthropology Section, serving both as secretary and vice-chair.

DEATHS

NATHAN R. EINHORN, chief of the Library of Congress Exchange and Gift Division since April 1968, died on December 13 in Washington, D.C. Einhorn came to LC in 1950 as a member of the library's annual Special Recruit (now Intern) Program for outstanding graduates of library schools. He subsequently served in the Exchange and Gift Division as assistant head of the Gift Section, head of both the Orientalia and American-British Sections, and assistant chief of the Order Division in 1964.

JOHN R. RUSSELL, director of libraries at the University of Rochester from 1940 to 1969 died on December 5 in Walnut Creek, California, after a long illness. In 1949 Russell had been named a fellow of the then Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences. He was president of the New York State Library Association, a member of the New York State Regents Library Council, and chair of the ALA Committee on Aid to Libraries in War Areas. He also served as volunteer librarian of the Rochester Academy of Science for 10 years. In 1966-67 Russell and his wife received Fulbright grants to serve at the American Studies Research Centre, Osmania University, Hyderabad, India. Russell was a consultant on the development of the Centre’s American history and literature collections.

He was a graduate of the University of Chicago and received a bachelor's degree in library science from the University of Michigan. Although he retired from Rochester in 1969, Russell was granted a leave of absence in 1968 to serve as librarian of the American College at Leysin, Switzerland. a post he held until 1973.
