CATALOGING AND METADATA SERVICES LIBRARIAN

Dartmouth College

Working at Dartmouth means joining an institution with a strong commitment to libraries. An interesting mix of graduate, professional, and undergraduate programs, and a diverse student body make Dartmouth an outstanding place to work. A high quality of life and a thriving regional arts community provide an attractive locale in which to work and live.

Dartmouth College Library seeks an innovative and creative librarian to serve as Cataloging and Metadata Services Librarian. The incumbent will participate in the formation of policy, procedures, and workflow practices for the creation and maintenance of metadata to support the discovery and access of information resources offered by the library. As a member of the management group in Cataloging and Metadata Services, the Cataloging and Metadata Services Librarian will assess bibliographic description and access needs of the Dartmouth College Digital Library, and design and implement processes to meet those needs including database design and the selection and implementation of metadata schemes. The incumbent will participate in the design of methods to ensure coordinated maintenance of metadata for the paper, audiovisual, and digital collections. This position also involves the discovery and evaluation of external sources of metadata, including comparison of purchased sources to in-house methods. The incumbent will participate in department goal setting and assessment, and communicate department goals to staff. He or she will provide training and guidance to staff, analyze workflows, and recommend, design, and implement changes as needed.

In addition, the incumbent will contribute to the management of cataloging processes and create catalog records for a wide variety of materials in many languages, subjects, and formats.

REQUIREMENTS: ALA-accredited MLS; demonstrated knowledge of library cataloging rules, standards, and formats; familiarity with major descriptive metadata standards such as Dublin Core and EAD, and their application in libraries; demonstrated competence in the use of an integrated library system, bibliographic databases, and networked cataloger's workstations; demonstrated understanding of the interfaces between these tools, especially those that control the movement of bibliographic data between databases; familiarity with current trends in cataloging, including those related to digital libraries; demonstrated group-based communication and problem-solving skills, and excellent interpersonal and written communication skills required. Desirable skills include database design, familiarity with XML, and familiarity with one or more foreign languages.

Rank and salary commensurate with experience and qualifications. Full benefits package including 22 vacation days; comprehensive health care; TIAA-CREF; and relocation assistance.

Review of applications will begin on September 3, 2002, and will continue until the position is filled.

Please submit résumé and letter of application to:

UNIVERSITY LIBRARIAN
Hollins University

Hollins University invites applications and nominations for the position of University Librarian. Hollins University is a distinguished national liberal arts university, founded in 1842 as Virginia's first chartered women's college. Coed graduate programs were established in 1958. Located in one of the most beautiful areas of Virginia, Hollins has many outstanding academic programs, including a nationally recognized English and creative writing program, a well-established internship program that gives undergraduate students a jump-start on their careers, and extensive study-abroad opportunities. One of the distinctions of the Hollins learning experience is the 4-1-4 calendar, which gives students the month of January to focus on particular courses of study, research projects, internships, or travel/study programs. Hollins' challenging curriculum blends rigor with creativity and innovation. Through small classes, a nine-to-one student/faculty ratio, and excellent advising, faculty members honor and develop student voices. The result is an active learning environment in which students feel free to test ideas, stretch their limits, and ultimately make a difference in the world.

Wyndham Robertson Library, a new facility dedicated in April 1999, is fully automated and serves nearly 900 undergraduate and 250 graduate students. The collection includes 212,000 print books and bound journals, as well as 202,000 microform documents. Periodical holdings include over 900 print titles and 1,200 in electric format.

Reporting to the vice president for academic affairs, the University Librarian oversees all library operations and services, including preparing and managing budgets, operational planning and assessment, developing and implementing library policies and procedures, coordinating collection development, supervision of the librarians and staff, and balancing existing library services and resources with emerging technologies. The University Librarian position carries faculty status.

Qualifications include an ALA-accredited MLS, with an additional advanced degree and a record of scholarly and professional achievement preferred. The applicant should have a minimum of four years' administrative experience in an academic library. Also required is a broad understanding of information technologies, library automation, and budget management, as well as effective communication and interpersonal skills.

Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience; a full benefits package is offered.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2002, and will continue until the position is filled. Letters of application, along with a comprehensive résumé and at least three letters of professional recommendation, should be sent to:

Chair, University Library Search Committee
Hollins University
P.O. Box 9716
Roanoke, VA 24020

Hollins University is an equal opportunity employer committed to advancing women and to supporting a diverse community.
DIRECTOR OF THE MILBANK MEMORIAL LIBRARY
Teachers College, Columbia University

Teachers College seeks a Director for the Milbank Memorial Library, the premier research library in the field of education. Over the past three years the college has engaged in a comprehensive and sustained effort to plan for the future of the Milbank Library. This planning process has resulted in a vision of the library as the center for intellectual social interaction on the campus, as a key player in the ongoing introduction of technology at Teachers College, and as the source for resources to support programs that extend beyond the campus. This vision will be developed and enhanced through both the reorganization and strengthening of library operations and through a major renovation of the library building, Russell Hall.

At this time the college seeks an individual who can provide intellectual and programmatic leadership to advance the educational mission of the library as the foundation of scholarship and teaching for the college community. The library director is a member of the senior administrative team reporting directly to the Vice President for Academic Affairs. Princeton University

The Princeton University Library, in the vanguard of the world's best research libraries, is heavily used by a population of 6,400 students and 1,100 faculty members. The general collection includes six million printed volumes that meet the diverse needs of the academic community. Its holdings range from ancient papyri and incunabula to the most advanced electronic databases and journals. The Library employs more than 300 professional and support personnel, complemented by a large student and hourly workforce. The Library system includes a large central library and 15 specialized libraries. More information can be found at the Library's Web site: http://libweb.princeton.edu/.

Princeton University seeks applications for the following positions:

Librarian for Latin American Studies, Latino Studies, and Iberian Peninsular Studies (Public Services and Collection Development Department)

DESCRIPTION: Princeton University Library is looking for an energetic, intellectually curious, and service-oriented professional to fill the position of Librarian for Latin American Studies, Latino Studies, and Iberian Peninsular Studies. This professional will be responsible for building upon the strong and often unique collections in these areas that are already at Princeton and for developing outreach programs that serve undergraduates, graduate students, and faculty in many departments. The Librarian will work especially closely with the faculty and students in the Department of Spanish and Portuguese Languages and Cultures and in the Program in Latin American Studies. In developing collections and in providing services, the Librarian will collaborate actively with colleagues throughout the Library system, in other libraries (for example, the Princeton Theological Seminary and Princeton's partners in LANE), and on a national scale.

The Librarian will develop and enhance the Library's collections of print and nonprint materials, primarily in Spanish and Portuguese, on Latin American, in Latino studies, and in the social sciences of the Iberian Peninsula. He/she will collect relevant materials that are unavailable through the normal book trade through carefully developed relations with agents worldwide and through acquisitions trips. The Librarian will manage several funds and will analyze the use of the collections. The Librarian will develop an aggressive and proactive outreach program to identify and assist students and faculty who are working in relevant subject areas, and the Librarian will provide a continuum of service and instructional offerings. This position will represent Princeton in the relevant regional, national, and international professional and scholarly organizations. This Librarian will be a member of the Public Services and Collection Development Department and will report to the Associate University Librarian for Public Services and Collection Development.

For the full position description, see: http://libweb5.princeton.edu/hr/jobLAS.html.

Librarian: Head of Public Services for Special Collections (Rare Books and Special Collections Department)

DESCRIPTION: This is a new position that will be filled by a person who has the capacity to thrive in an environment of change and to foster that capacity in others. The position will be responsible for two active public service operations, one at the Firestone Library and the other at the Seeley G. Mudd Manuscript Library. Together the reading rooms serve more than 5,000 researchers annually, and...

thousands more seek help by mail, phone, fax, e-mail, and Web forms. The reference operations are particularly complex in that the holdings span five millennia and five continents, and include around 200,000 rare or significant printed works; 30,000 linear feet of textual materials, ranging from cuneiform tablets to contemporary manuscripts; a wealth of prints, drawings, photographs, maps, coins, and other visual materials; the Cotsen Children’s Library; and the Princeton University Archives. The privately owned Scheide Library is associated with the Department. The incumbent will be expected to provide front-line reference assistance in addition to the managerial responsibilities.

The issues that face the successful creative and innovative manager include: automation of user records; department security; strategic planning with regard to space, resource allocation and personnel for effective delivery of public services; proactive outreach to faculty and students; digital reserves for special collections materials; responsibility for the Department’s Web site; hours of service; integration and scheduling of appropriate curatorial and support staff into reference operations; coordination and review of manuals currently used for reference operations; delivery of photo services (including scanning); reorganization of the department’s two reading rooms; use of seminar rooms; cross-fertilization within the department’s current reference delivery points. In all of these areas, this position must work closely and harmoniously with curatorial staff, seeking the knowledge and advice of these subject specialists who share the responsibility for delivery of public services. The position has major responsibilities for hiring, training, supervising, and overseeing workflow for those involved in room supervision, reception, photo services, etc. Currently, two professional and eight support staff will report directly to this position, but many other professional and support staff are involved in providing reference and research assistance. This position reports to the Associate University Librarian for Rare Books and Special Collections and will be one of the key members of the management team for the department.

QUALIFICATIONS: Required: MLS or equivalent combination of education and professional experience. MA/PhD in a relevant humanities discipline. At least five years’ experience in the delivery of public services preferably in a special collections environment, and as an effective supervisor of both professional and support staff. Demonstrated understanding of public service functions and knowledge of best practices and current trends in the provision of information services. Knowledge of research issues, trends, teaching methods, and instructional design in the humanities and social sciences. Concrete examples of strong organizational, analytical, and decision-making skills. Demonstrated knowledge of library technology and experience with library automation and Web site development and maintenance. Flexibility in adapting to change, and planning and implementing creative user-services initiatives. Ability to focus on strategic goals and objectives. Demonstrated capacity to work effectively with staff, colleagues, faculty, and students. Excellent written, oral, and interpersonal skills. Record of professional and scholarly activities. Language skills in one or more Western languages.

COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS: Compensation for each position will be competitive and commensurate with experience and accomplishments. Twenty-four vacation days a year, plus 11 paid holidays. Health care insurance, disability insurance, and other benefits are available for both positions.

NOMINATIONS AND APPLICATIONS: Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until each position is filled. Nominations and applications (resume and the names, titles, addresses and phone numbers of three references) should be sent as a Word attachment via e-mail to: libhrpro@princeton.edu, or fax to (609) 258-0454. Submissions via regular mail are also welcomed and can be sent to:

JUDAICA/REFERENCE LIBRARIAN

University of California, Berkeley

Assistant/Associate Librarian
$37,728—$63,840 per annum, based upon qualifications

Under the general direction of the Head, Research, Reference, and Collections Department, the Judaica/Reference Librarian will contribute to general reference in the Humanities and Social Sciences, providing reference at two service points and scheduled consultations at Research Advisory Services.

The incumbent will contribute to the development and integration of Web-based resources for collection development, library instruction, and reference services. Selection responsibilities include building the print and electronic collections together with identification of reliable resources on the Internet and developing library user guides and Web pages to facilitate user access. As a member of the reference team, the librarian contributes to the constant improvement of research services and user education, and in the creation of new services.

The Judaica/Reference Librarian will also have chief responsibility as selector for Berkeley’s collections and services relating to materials from and about Israel and the Jewish Diaspora. Specific responsibilities include oversight and expenditure authority for funds to acquire materials from Israel in the humanities and social sciences, advice and counsel for improving cooperative collecting activities with other UC, California and United States academic libraries, and the establishment of programs and procedures to incorporate electronic resources into the Library’s Judaica collections. In addition, the incumbent will promote active consultation with and provide recommendations to others in the Doe/Moffitt Libraries concerning selection of materials about Judaica published outside of Israel.

Working in a highly collegial environment, the incumbent is expected to contribute to the librarywide planning process through participation in function and subject councils, ad hoc task forces, and other committees as appropriate. UCB librarians are expected to participate in librarywide planning and governance, to be able to work comfortably in a shared decision-making environment, and to be active professionally. Advancement in the Librarian series is based in part on professional contributions beyond the primary assignment (e.g., active participation in university and professional settings, publications or other research and creative activity). The successful candidate will show promise or evidence of such contributions.

REQUIRED

An MLIS from an ALA-accredited institution, or equivalent degree; fluency in Hebrew; experience or course-work in collection development and reference service using print and electronic resources; demonstrated proficiency in using electronic and Internet resources available to support humanities and social sciences research.

DESIRABLE

An undergraduate or advanced degree in a subject field pertaining to Judaic Studies; working knowledge of Yiddish; familiarity with other Semitic and European languages; experience in general reference, and library instruction; experience in grant writing and fundraising.

Candidate must have excellent analytical, interpersonal, and communication skills, and show both initiative and flexibility; demonstrated ability to work effectively with a diverse population of faculty, staff, student, and community members.

Wayne State University

Wayne State University (WSU) is one of the nation's leading urban research universities with a demonstrated commitment to teaching and learning excellence. The university's enrollment of more than 31,000 (18,400 undergraduates) makes it the 18th largest university in the United States. The WSU campus is located in an attractive urban setting, surrounded by museums, theaters, and corporate offices easily accessible from several Detroit-area interstate freeways and Canada. The University Library System consists of the Access Services, Information Services, Shiffman Medical Library, Arthur Neef Law Library, Library and Computing Media Services, Technical Services, UGE 1000, and the graduate Library and Information Science Program.

POSITION AND RESPONSIBILITIES: WSU is searching for a dynamic, service-oriented individual to play a leadership role in its recently reorganized Library System. Reporting to the Director, Access Services, and working closely with other key Access leaders and staff, this position will: lead the electronic reserves team and work toward the promotion and ongoing development of the libraries' recently implemented electronic reserves system, and help to establish the library as an active partner with faculty in online course development; lead the Document Delivery/ILL team into the future through implementation of new technologies, development of new delivery methods, and participation in cooperative resource-sharing initiatives; train, develop, supervise, and evaluate Access staff within appropriate functional units; consult and act as resource person for access-related policies and procedures for the Medicine and Law Libraries; pay a leadership role on appropriate DALNET, Michigan Library Exchange (MILE), ATLAS, and other regional or state collaborative or consortial projects; participate in state, regional, and national user groups, as well as attend meetings, conferences, and seminars on current trends and developments in library access services; perform other duties as assigned. The Document Delivery/Electronic Reserves Librarian will not only have primary responsibility for document delivery and electronic reserves, but will assist in planning, co-coordinating, and implementing changes in organization, policies, and procedures for all Access operations in the three core campus libraries composed of the Undergraduate Library, the Science and Engineering Library, and the Purdy/Kresge Library, as well as in one or more satellite campus resource centers.

QUALIFICATIONS: Master's degree required in Library and Information Science from an ALA-accredited institution; experience in one or both of ILL and electronic reserves; two or more years' experience supervising staff in an academic or research library; ability to set priorities for both staff and library users in a service-oriented, collaborative environment; demonstrated evidence of initiative and self-direction; strong commitment to public service; demonstrated experience with library computer applications and electronic information resources; knowledge of electronic and print reference sources; excellent analytical and organizational skills; strong customer service orientation; strong technological skills and knowledge of current and emerging technologies and trends in reference and instructional services. Salary: Minimum $32,000; depending on experience and qualifications. Generous benefits include 30 days' paid annual leave. The successful candidate is required to wear a military uniform. Send letter of application, résumé, and the names, addresses, e-mail, and telephone numbers of at least three professional references to: Don Samdahl, Head Librarian, Preston Library, Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, VA 24450. Applications received by September 27, 2002, will receive full consideration. Virginia Military Institute is an equal opportunity employer.
