Classified Ads

Career opportunities from across the country

Deadlines: Orders for regular classified advertisements must reach the ACRL office on or before the second of the month preceding publication of the issue (e.g., September 2 for the October issue). Should this date fall on a weekend or holiday, ads will be accepted on the next business day. Late job listings will be accepted on a space-available basis after the second of the month.

Rates: Classified advertisements are $8.75 per line for institutions that are ACRL members, $10.75 for others. Late job notices are $20.50 per line for institutions that are ACRL members, $24.95 for others. Organizations submitting ads will be charged according to their membership status. Display ad rates range from $395 to $745 based upon size. Please call for sizes and rates. Or see our website: http://www.ala.org/acrl/advert2.html.

Guidelines: For ads that list an application deadline, we suggest that date be no sooner than the 20th day of the month in which the notice appears (e.g., October 20 for the October issue). All job announcements should include a salary range per policy of the American Library Association (ALA). Job announcements will be edited to exclude discriminatory references. Applicants should be aware that the terms faculty rank and status vary in meaning among institutions.

AA/EEO/ADA Employer
Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi invites applications and nominations for the position of Director of the Mary and Jeff Bell Library. The successful candidate must be an innovative and experienced team leader who will play a key role in enhancing the quality of the educational and intellectual experience at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi. In collaboration with library personnel, the Director will develop new ways to engage faculty and students in the application of information technologies and the continuous assessment of library collections, services and facilities. As the senior library administrator, the Director is responsible for the overall management of the Bell Library and the ongoing agreements the university has developed with the Robert B. Parrish Medical Library, the Coastal Bend Health Information Network, and international libraries. The Director of the Bell Library is an administrative twelve-month appointment reporting directly to the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Qualifications include an advanced degree at least at the masters level required, ALA-accredited in Library or Information Science preferred; administrative experience in an academic or research library in broad areas of library operations, particularly in the areas of financial management and resource allocation; involvement in the planning and coordination of library automation, emerging technologies, and consortium development; an understanding of the trends in higher education, and their impact on the nature of the academic library of the future.

The candidate must have a proven ability to provide visionary leadership in a changing and flexible environment as well as a demonstrated commitment to consultative and collaborative management.

The Mary and Jeff Bell Library has holdings in excess of 350,000 volumes. The library’s online catalog is on the Innovative Interfaces system. The library subscribes to over 1,600 periodical titles and enjoys extensive network capabilities that provide access to over 100 electronic databases as well as the Internet. The library also houses a Special Collections and Archives Department with a collection emphasizing South Texas culture and history. The library’s Web page is located at www.tamucc.edu/~libweb.

Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi has 6,400 students and 270 faculty and is one of the fastest growing universities in the state of Texas. It includes the College of Arts and Humanities, the College of Business, the College of Education, and the College of Science and Technology. During the past two years, the university was named as the top public regional university in Texas in U.S. News and World Report’s America’s Best Colleges. The university is in a picturesque setting on an island surrounded by Corpus Christi Bay and Oso Bay. Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi is dedicated to providing higher educational opportunities to the South Texas region, particularly to those qualified individuals who are historically underrepresented in the higher-education community.

Interested applicants should submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae with names, addresses, and phone numbers of three references, and a statement of their vision for the academic library of the future.

DIRECTOR OF HUMAN RESOURCE PROGRAMS AND SERVICES

The Director, in consultation with the Harvard College Library Administration, will provide leadership in the advancement of the human resources programs and services to fulfill the strategic vision of the library. The Harvard College Library is in the midst of a major planning effort for renovations to the Widener Library; will soon be embarking on the replacement of the on-line library information system; is actively engaged in digital initiatives across the University; and will soon be participating in the implementation of the University's new system for financial and human resource information management. Underlying all these efforts is an organizational change/development program addressing continuous development of both the individual and the organization.

The Harvard College Library with a staff of approximately 450 FTE plus over 1000 part-time and student employees is a complex and diverse organization. Consisting of Widener Library (the main research library for most of the humanities and social sciences); Houghton (rare books and manuscripts); Lamont and Hilles (undergraduate collections); Cabot Science; Harvard-Yenching (East Asian collections); Music; Fine Arts; Kummel (geological sciences); Littauer (economics and government); and Tozzer (anthropology), the Harvard College Library has a combined annual budget of $54 million.

Responsibilities: The Director is responsible for the direction, review, and continuous improvement of the College Library's Human Resource programs and services. The Director has primary responsibility for interpreting, communicating and/or formulating policy; directs the provision of comprehensive Human Resource support including the following: recruitment and employment; compensation and position classification; performance management and evaluation; staff relations; and staff and organizational development. The Director plays a key leadership role and will have primary responsibility for developing a collaborative process (within the Library, the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the University) that assures the quality and continued development of human resource programs and services. This position manages a staff of 5+ FTE and reports to the Associate Librarian for Planning and Administration.

Qualifications: The ability to manage the dynamic process of change in a large complex environment; substantial and progressively responsible human resources experience as a member of an administrative team; broad knowledge and understanding of human resource management including work with complex federal, state, and local regulations is required. The position demands excellent written, oral, interpersonal, organizational and presentation skills. A strong service orientation, the ability to collaborate effectively with diverse constituencies and a commitment to excellence are essential. A degree in a relevant discipline and a thorough knowledge of the human resources field is expected. Experience in higher education or not-for-profit organization preferred.

Available: The review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Compensation: Harvard University offers a competitive program of benefits. Appointment salary commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested parties are invited to submit a letter addressing position qualifications, resume, and the names, addresses, telephone and fax numbers of three references to:

Lewis and Clark College invites nominations and applications for the position of Director of the Library. We seek a creative and energetic individual who enjoys working with faculty, staff, and students in a close academic community; building collections to meet the needs of new and existing programs; sustaining the Library's strong reputation for individualized reference service and commitment to patrons; promoting the integration of the library with other services on campus; and facilitating library staff development. The Director of the Library must possess awareness of current issues in higher education, knowledge of both traditional and electronic library environments, an understanding of the evolving nature of scholarly communication and publishing, and the leadership to articulate and enact a vision for the future of library resources and services.

Lewis and Clark College is located ten minutes from downtown Portland, within Oregon's beautiful Willamette Valley. The College of Arts & Sciences carries out its undergraduate mission through arts and sciences programs, firmly rooted in the traditions of the liberal arts, complemented by postgraduate programs in the closely related professions of education and counseling. The Aubrey R. Watzek Library serves a campus population of 1,750 undergraduate and 600 graduate students.

The Director of the Watzek Library reports to the Dean of the College and administers an annual budget of $1.6 million and a staff of 23 (including 7 librarians). Expanded and remodeled in 1995, the Watzek Library houses 245,000 volumes, 390,000 microform units, and 1,820 current periodical subscriptions. The Library possesses a growing number of electronic resources, some of which are acquired through consortial agreements with other libraries across the city, state, and region.

The successful candidate will hold a Master's degree in library science with an additional subject master's or doctoral degree. The Director will combine recent experience in progressively more responsible positions in academic libraries with demonstrated leadership in institutional and wider professional arenas. Comprehensive knowledge of information technology and library automation is essential, as are excellent communication skills and management ability.

Letters of application should include a curriculum vitae along with names, addresses, and telephone numbers of three references. Send applications to:

University Librarian

Chapman University seeks an energetic and visionary leader to serve as University Librarian. This position offers an opportunity for a talented library professional with strong academic interests, demonstrated skill in library administration and experience in fund raising to work with the university community in shaping the library for a successful and rapidly strengthening university of the twenty-first century. The successful candidate, in addition to directing traditional library services and collections, will have the opportunity to initiate ambitious programs to improve services, collections and facilities, and to continue the university's advances in integrating state-of-the-art information technologies in its library system. The new University Librarian, who will report directly to the Provost, can expect strong administrative support for initiatives to improve the library, as evidenced by the current capital campaign giving the library the highest fund raising priority.

Chapman, an independent, comprehensive university offering undergraduate, master's and doctoral degree programs, is the premiere independent alternative to public institutions in Orange County, CA. The university, with a strong track record of planned growth while maintaining an excellent academic reputation, is an exciting, dynamic environment where people of talent, vision and integrity are able to contribute substantively to the future of the institution. The Orange campus, located 30 miles southeast of Los Angeles in a culturally diverse community, serves approximately 2500 undergraduate and 1000 graduate students, while twenty Academic Centers throughout the western U.S. serve approximately 3500 students primarily in professional graduate programs.

Qualifications: A.L.A. accredited M.L.S. and master's degree in an academic discipline are required; Ph.D. preferred. Also required: demonstrated experience in academic library administration and the use of information systems in support of library functions. Recommended: experience providing library support to a diverse student body, a significant fund-raising record, including extra-mural grants, and evident ability to articulate a coherent vision of an academic library to a wide audience. The successful candidate will demonstrate exceptional communication skills, experience in collection development and the ability to respond to student and faculty needs in a growing university.

Responsibilities: The University Librarian provides leadership, supervision and budgetary oversight in all aspects of the university library, including (i) developing, communicating and implementing a vision of the library and a strategic plan for the library within the context of the university's strategic plan, (ii) acquiring resources, including extra-mural grant writing and private fund raising, needed to support library programs and facilities, (iii) planning, with active engagement of the faculty, for curricular and programmatic needs, (iv) coordinating efforts with the Office of Academic Computing to meet the information technological needs of students and faculty, (v) developing special collections (vi) staffing of the library, (vii) overseeing an extensive inter-campus library information systems network.

Applications and nominations: Nominations are welcome. Review of candidates will begin January 15, 1999 and will continue until the position is filled.

AA/EO/ADA
EAST ASIAN BIBLIOGRAPHER
University of Pennsylvania Library

The University of Pennsylvania Library is seeking a librarian with the knowledge, energy, and vision to develop and manage its growing collections in East Asian Studies. This will involve building on the already strong print collections in Chinese and Japanese, strengthening the holdings in Korean, and facilitating the acquisition and linking of electronic resources. The librarian will work closely with faculty members, supervise the processing of materials in vernacular languages, provide advanced reference service, and advise library colleagues on Western-language material concerning East Asia.

At present the East Asia vernacular collection comprises more than 150,000 volumes, which places it in the middle rank of East Asia research collections in this country. The materials allocation for 1998/99 is $394,035. In addition to the bibliographer there are two full-time non-professional staff members and student help. The librarian will also represent the Penn Library at appropriate regional and national meetings and conferences. The bibliographer reports to the Director for Collection Management and Development and is a member of a team of area studies bibliographers, which includes those for the Middle East and South Asia.

SALARY & RANK: Dependent on qualifications.

TO APPLY: Submit a cover letter, resume and names of three references to:
