A visit to ACRL’s Minnesota Chapter

Academic Libraries Day in Minnesota was planned with the total cooperation of the weather. A beautiful fall day greeted me as I arrived in Minneapolis on Thursday, October 16. Tom Peischl, dean of the library at Mankato State University and a member of the ACRL Budget and Finance Committee, picked me up at the airport and drove me to Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter. On the way we stopped at Emma’s for a typical family-type lunch while admiring the bountiful colors on the trees and related fall activities.

That afternoon, I led a discussion on “Directors/Administrators Looking at Change in the Workplace” with members of the Council of Academic Library Directors (CALD). Many issues related to technology/automation surfaced and the need for more and better staff development and continuing education programs became very apparent. It must also be noted that Minnesota academic library directors are very strong in the area of cooperation and sharing among private and public institutions. After a fine meal prepared in the kitchen of Gustavus Adolphus College, members of CALD and I continued our discussion into the late evening, after which Tom drove me to the Holiday Inn in Mankato.

Early in the morning, I was able to enjoy another superb Minnesota fall day and the marvelous sounds of geese and loons during a long walk. Carol Johnson, cataloger at the University of Minnesota Libraries and chair of the ACRL Minnesota Chapter, graciously drove me back to the Gustavus Adolphus College for the meeting, which focused on “Change in the Workplace.”

Approximately one hundred librarians participated. I talked to them about ten challenges facing academic libraries and suggested a few creative solutions. Five discussion groups on “The OCLC Oxford Project,” “The Librarian as Intellectual,” “Sharing: Collections and Expertise,” “Changing Library Buildings,” and “MLA Survey on Professional Development” completed the program in the afternoon.

The conference arrangement provided ample opportunity for sharing information and discussing problems. After lunch, participants were able to see the new library, chapel, and sculptures by Paul Granlund, sculptor-in-residence. Some of us had the rare opportunity to meet Mr. Granlund and discuss his beautiful sculptures with him.

Hannelore B. Rader, ACRL President.

Lexi-Fest in Philadelphia

The 1987 biennial meeting of the Dictionary Society of North America will meet jointly with the American Dialect Society on June 5–6, 1987, at St. Joseph’s University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Anyone wishing to present a paper at the meeting is encouraged to submit an abstract of 250–350 words by March 20, 1987. There are no restrictions on topics in lexicography, although there will be a panel of papers on “Dictionary Use and Users” and another on dialects. The length of papers will be 15–20 minutes. To submit an abstract or to write for further information, contact: John C. Traupman, Chairman, Classics Department, St. Joseph’s University, 5600 City Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19131; (215) 879-7579.
