The Classified Ads

Deadlines: Offers for regular classified advertisements must reach the ACRL office on or before the second of the month preceding publication of the issue (e.g., September 2 for the October issue). Should this fall on a weekend or holiday, ads will be accepted on the next business day. Late job listings will be accepted on a space-available basis after the second of the month.

Rates: Classified advertisements are $8.45 per line for institutions that are ACRL members, $14.85 for others. Late job notices are $20.25 per line for institutions that are ACRL members, $34.25 for others. Organizations submitting ads will be charged according to their membership status. Display ad rates range from $375 to $710 based upon size. Please call for sizes and rates.

Guidelines: For ads that list an application deadline, we suggest that date be no sooner than the 20th day of the month in which the notice appears (e.g., October 20 for the October issue). All job announcements should include a salary range per policy of the American Library Association (ALA). Job announcements will be edited to exclude discriminatory references. Applicants should be aware that the term's faculty rank and status vary in meaning among institutions.

Internet: C&RL News classified ads are accessible on ACRL’s homepage on the World Wide Web at http://www.ala.org/acrl.html. Ads will be placed approximately 2-3 weeks before the printed edition of C&RL News is published. To reach C&RL NewsNet access the ACRL homepage (http://www.ala.org/acrl.html), select C&RL News, and then choose the menu item Job Postings by Job Title.

Contact: Jack Helbig, Classified Advertising Manager, C&RL News Classified Advertising Department, ACRL, American Library Association, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, IL 60611-2795; (312) 280-2513; fax: (312) 280-7663; crl@ala.org; e-mail: helbig@ala.org

Policy: ALA policy requires that organizations recruiting through ALA publications or placement services comply with ALA anti-discrimination policies. Policy 54.3 states that “ALA is committed to equality of opportunity for all library employees or applicants for employment regardless of race, color, creed, sex, age, physical or mental handicap, individual lifestyle, or national origin.” By advertising through ALA services, the organization agrees to comply with this policy.

The University of Miami invites applications and nominations for the position of Director of Libraries. The appropriate candidate will provide leadership and vision to mold the university's library system to meet the needs of the academic and research community of the 21st century.

The University of Miami, a Carnegie Class I comprehensive research institution, consists of four campuses, with its central campus and main library located in Coral Gables. It is the largest private university in the state of Florida. Now celebrating its 70th birthday, the university is home to approximately 8,000 undergraduate students; 5,200 graduate, professional, and medical students; and 1,884 full-time faculty. The University of Miami ranks 38th among all universities and 16th among all private universities in expenditures of federal funds for research and development, according to the National Science Foundation. The university's faculty attracts more than $212 million annually in grant and contract revenues.

The Director of Libraries, reporting to the Executive Vice President and Provost and serving as a member of the Academic Deans' Policy Council, oversees the Otto G. Richter Library, the main library of the university, as well as libraries for the School of Music and the School of Architecture. The university's library is a member of the Association of Research Libraries and the Center for Research Libraries, participates in the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research and the Southeast Florida Library Information Network, and is a depository for U.S. government publications. Library services are delivered by 36 faculty and 80 support staff. The Director works collaboratively and collegially with the directors of libraries at the School of Medicine, School of Law, and the Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science and with the Vice President for Information Technology to advance a universitywide network of scholarly materials and information resources. With holdings of more than two million volumes, 19,500 serial subscriptions, 3.1 million microforms, a materials budget of more than $5 million, and total library system expenditures of $13.2 million, the university's library system is considered the center of academic life at the institution. Funds have been raised and budgeted for a significant physical expansion of the Richter Library.

The successful candidate will have the skills to lead the library system to a future that creatively integrates new media, technologies, and programs with traditional library collections and services to its faculty, research, and student communities. An earned doctorate and an ALA-accredited MLS are preferred. Significant academic or research administrative experience, a broad knowledge of current issues in library science, and a distinguished record in the field are required. Knowledge of emerging technologies and their potential contribution to research, scholarly communication, and library management is also essential. The candidate should have experience in fiscal management and fundraising, as well as excellent communication skills to interact with the diverse constituencies of an academic setting. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications. Review of applications will begin on November 15, 1996, and continue until a candidate is chosen. This position will become available at the beginning of the 1997–1998 academic year.

Please send a letter of recommendation or application to the address below. Include a curriculum vitae and the names, addresses and phone numbers of at least three references (Note: references will not be contacted without prior approval of the applicant).

LIBRARY DIRECTOR
Union College
Schenectady, New York

Union College invites applications and nominations for the position of Director of Schaffer Library. The successful candidate must have a passionate commitment to the academic enterprise. The candidate must also embrace the values of the traditional library and be committed to making imaginative use of technology to meet the information needs of students and faculty.

An independent, residential liberal arts college of 2,000 undergraduates, Union offers a wide variety of undergraduate programs from arts to engineering. It also offers small graduate programs in secondary education, engineering, and management. The college is nearing completion of a $150 million Bicentennial campaign that includes a funding goal (recently met) for a major expansion and renovation of Schaffer Library and for development of its collections. The new library is designed to provide enhanced support for the college’s strong tradition of teaching, undergraduate research, and faculty scholarship. Construction will begin during the current academic year.

Schaffer Library belongs to the Oberlin Group of Libraries, the Coalition for Networked Information (CNI), OCLC, and the 50-member Capital District Library Council. Among its resources are the rich collections housed in the College Archives and Special Collections, the DRA integrated software system, and computer-assisted reference via CD-ROM and various online services.

The Director reports to the Vice President for Academic Affairs/Dean of the Faculty and works closely with faculty as well as the Director of Computer Services. The Director is responsible for a staff of 27, including 12 professional librarians, a collection of 500,000 volumes, and a budget of $2 million. In addition, the Director is responsible for managing, planning, and budgeting in ways that further the Library’s contribution to the educational mission of the college. The Director also has responsibility for staff development and evaluation and for developing collections and services. In the immediate future, the Director will be responsible for working with others on campus to ensure the success of the library expansion and renovation project.

An ALA-accredited MLS is required and an advanced degree in another discipline is preferred. Also required is broad experience at the professional level, culminating in five or more years of administrative experience in an academic library. Proven leadership abilities and demonstrated skills in working with library personnel and a range of library constituencies are required, as is evidence of a commitment to professional growth and participation in the profession beyond the local level.

The position of Director of Schaffer Library is an administrative appointment with faculty status at the appropriate rank. The appointment is to begin on July 1, 1997. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. Candidates should send a letter of application with a resume and the names and addresses of three references by January 1, 1997. These should be addressed to:

James Underwood, Chair
Search Committee for Library Director
Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs
Feigenbaum Administration Building
Union College
Schenectady, NY 12308

The College is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer and encourages applications from women and members of minority groups.

LIBRARIAN OF THE BURNDY LIBRARY
Dibner Institute for the History of Science and Technology

The Dibner Institute for the History of Science and Technology is seeking a head librarian and curator of the Burndy Library who possesses the creative enthusiasm, intellectual breadth, and professional skills to run a vital, scholarly library in the field of the history of science and technology. The Burndy Library, founded in 1936, now provides important bibliographic support to the Dibner Institute, a center for advanced research, located at MIT, in Cambridge, Massachusetts. The Burndy Library's antiquarian and contemporary secondary source collections of books, manuscripts, graphics, art, and scientific instruments and apparatus serve as a core library resource for Dibner Institute resident fellows and for scholars and students worldwide. The institute plans to continue the Library's special exhibitions of rare books and instruments and the Burndy Library series of publications in the history of science and technology.

The Librarian of the Burndy Library reports to the Directors of the Dibner Institute, who are responsible for the operation of the library and for ensuring that the library’s collections are preserved, extended, and made available to scholars as well as to the public at large. The Burndy Librarian will play a major role in guiding the library’s future development, oversee all library activities, supervise a small professional and support staff, and serve as representative of the library to Dibner Institute resident and visiting fellows, the libraries of Dibner Institute consortium member institutions (Boston University, Brandeis University, Harvard University, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology), and to a variety of external constituencies.

We invite both nominations and applications for this position.

Requirements for the position of Librarian of the Burndy Library include a master's degree in library science or equivalent preparation, a record of distinguished educational and professional achievement, a working knowledge of foreign languages, varied and responsible administrative experience in an academic or research library, including experience with the applications of computer technology, and close familiarity with the world of rare books in the history of science and technology. The successful candidate should show evidence of leadership in the profession, the ability to foster a spirit of cooperation and effectiveness among staff members, and the commitment, imagination, and wisdom to help shape a unique research library in a major academic center.

Salary and benefits are competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Review of nominations and applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Please send letter of nomination or letter of application, including resume and references, to:

There are approximately 390 staff, including 87 librarians with full faculty status. The Dean of The University Libraries has primary responsibility for budgets, strategic planning, personnel resources, leadership of The Libraries’ faculty, library automation, fund-raising, and the development of collections, services, and programs.

Candidates should have high-level management experience in a research library, based on in-depth experience in librarianship, and including significant experience with integrated library systems and networked information technologies; an understanding of the major issues and trends affecting research libraries; strong leadership skills and the ability to promote cooperation in a multi-campus, collegial, and consortia environment; the ability to support the teaching, research, and service missions of a large public university and the intellectual and service missions of its libraries. The successful candidate should have the vision to lead The University Libraries into the twenty-first century, a record of innovation, and demonstrated record of success in fund-raising. It is expected that the Dean will have a commitment to and sustained achievement in scholarship and research in librarianship or another discipline, commensurate with a tenured appointment in The Libraries or one of the University’s academic units; and national standing in the profession. A Master of Library Science degree or its equivalent from an accredited program is required; an additional advanced degree is desired.

The Pennsylvania State University is the comprehensive land-grant university of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It is composed of the University Park Campus and 22 other campuses throughout Pennsylvania. In the 1995-96 academic year, the University had 4,226 full-time faculty members; 76,000 students; and an annual budget of more than $1.7 million.

Please send nominations, applications, and inquiries to the address that follows. Applications and nominations will be reviewed beginning December 15, 1996, and will be accepted until the position is filled. ANALYSIS, OFFICE OF INFORMATION SYSTEMS
AND SERVICES

California Lutheran University
Thousand Oaks, California

California Lutheran University (CLU) seeks an individual to join the Technical Services team of the Office of Information Systems and Services (ISS) as Head of Resource Development and Bibliographic Analysis. We seek an individual who will be committed to the goals of ISS and to working in an organizational structure which integrates the traditional units of library, instructional media, telecommunications, and academic and administrative computing, and which utilizes relational work groups in its day-to-day operations. The person in this position will provide leadership for the resource development and bibliographic analysis teams as well as serve on other teams as they relate to the responsibilities of this position, including the bibliographic systems and Internet/Web teams.

The successful candidate will present a portfolio which demonstrates strong interpersonal, teaching, and organizational skills, with a successful track record in library technical services, especially in terms of the selection and cataloging of electronic resources as complements to traditional resources (including government documents as a selective depository). A master’s degree in library and information science from an ALA-accredited institution is required, and subject expertise in business or natural sciences is preferred. Knowledge of and experience with collection development policies, MARC formats, and AACR2 is also required. Training and experience with Microsoft Office, HTML, Netscape, and the providing of information services in a networked campus environment is preferred.

This is a 12-month, full-time, contract position. The position will be available January 1, 1997. Review of portfolios begins October 28, 1996.

interdisciplinary collaborations. The library will support projects sponsored through the Media Union, the Academic Outreach Program, and will actively pursue the development and distribution of digital resources and services. All Media Union librarians are expected not only to work closely with departments within their areas of expertise but also to support other Media Union constituencies. Duties: Under the supervision of the Media Union Director of Information Services, the Visual Resources Curator/Librarian will perform public service duties at the Media Union and participate in UM Library activities. Responsibilities include management and collection development of a rapidly growing collection of visual resources (primarily in the areas of art and architecture, but including other disciplines as well), reference service, digital services, instruction, faculty liaison, and other activities. Qualifications: Required: ALA-accredited MLS, or a Master’s degree in an appropriate subject area. Two years prior experience in a visual resources collection or art-related library. Experience using networked computers and software appropriate for the creation of databases and programs for the management and manipulation of images. Familiarity with visual resources collection development and management, and with searching arts-related databases, and an understanding of scholarly research methods and information needs. Excellent oral and written communication skills. Proficiency using online catalogs, databases, and the internet. Ability to function effectively as part of a team of information specialists working with culturally diverse faculty, students, and staff. Desired: Additional graduate-level course work: for an MLS—in art history, architecture, or studio art; for an MA/MS—in an information management field such as library science. Instructional experience. Demonstrated experience using one or more of the following: WWW resource development, desktop publishing, multimedia development. Working knowledge of a major European language. Rank, salary, and leave: Final rank dependent on qualifications. Minimum salary of $29,500; 24 working days of vacation per year; 15 days of sick leave per year, with provisions for extended benefits. To apply: Send cover letter and resume to: Karen Downing, Library Human Resources, 404 Hatcher Graduate Library North, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI 48109-1205. Application deadline: Applications received by December 16, 1996, will be given first consideration. The University of Michigan is a nondiscriminatory, affirmative action employer.
