HEAD OF COPY CATALOGING UNIT
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

AVAILABLE: February 1, 1996.

DESCRIPTION: The Academic Libraries at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill seek an energetic and creative individual to provide leadership for the Copy Cataloging Unit within the Catalog Department, including training, supervision, and evaluation of all staff members assigned to the unit. The unit includes 11.5 paraprofessionals plus part-time student employees. The unit head also participates in departmental planning and management which includes procedure development and policy making, and coordinates the unit’s work with that of other units throughout the library. New monographs are cataloged using records found in the OCLC database. Library of Congress classification and subject headings are used. The libraries use the DRA system to provide bibliographic access to the collections.

The individual in this position should combine the technical knowledge and experience described with the ability to evaluate procedures and policies in light of technological changes and services available. The goal must be to enhance services to users by placing the greatest possible number of new books on library shelves as efficiently and quickly as possible. This provides an opportunity to create an ideal combination of traditional and innovative methods to reach that goal through creative use of today’s technology and effective leadership and motivational skills.

THE UNIVERSITY AND THE LIBRARIES: The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is the country’s oldest state university. It has an enrollment of some 24,000 students, employs more than 2,200 faculty, and offers the Ph.D. in 62 fields. The Academic Libraries hold over 3.7 million volumes and 3.2 million microforms. The library is a member of SOLINET, the Association of Research Libraries, the Center for Research Libraries, and the Triangle Research Libraries Network (TRLN), and is a NACO participant. The TRLN libraries, including the Health Sciences and Law libraries at Chapel Hill plus the libraries at Duke University, North Carolina Central University, and North Carolina State University, have combined collections of over ten million volumes.

The Triangle region is rated among the most desirable areas in North America to live and work. The location of Chapel Hill permits visits to mountains or seashore, Washington or Atlanta, even on weekends. In addition, activities for people of all ages and areas of interest abound within fifty miles of the campus.

QUALIFICATIONS: Required: ALA-accredited MLS with at least three years of increasingly responsible professional experience in cataloging utilizing a bibliographic utility, including at least one year of supervisory experience. Knowledge of MARC format, AACR2, LC classification, and LC subject headings. Strong communication and interpersonal skills. Preferred: Experience with OCLC and Data Research Associates bibliographic access system; knowledge of one or more western European languages.

SALARY AND BENEFITS: 12-month academic librarian appointment with a minimum annual salary of $33,000. Standard state benefits of annual leave, sick leave, and state or TIAA/CREF retirement plan.

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATION: For priority consideration, applications should be received by January 2, 1996. Applications will continue to be considered until the position is filled.

TO APPLY: Send a letter of application, resume, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of three current, professional references to:

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION: The library of the University of Illinois (U-C) seeks candidates for its Academic Resident Librarian Program to serve one-year post graduate appointments in the university library system. Appointments may be renewed for a second year. The program offers a beginning professional experience in an academic research library, supplemented with lectures, workshops, and library visits. The University of Illinois Library offers special opportunities to librarians planning a career in academic librarianship. It has a decentralized system of 45 college and departmental libraries organized in nine subject divisions. All librarians are faculty and must meet university requirements for promotion and tenure, including research, publication, and service. The library of the University of Illinois has holdings of more than eight million volumes, with strengths in many areas, ranging from hard sciences to the humanities. The library was selected in 1994 by the National Science Foundation as one of six sites for research on the digital library of the future. Academic Resident Librarians will be assigned to a library or unit and given work assignments appropriate for an introductory academic library experience. Placements are available throughout the subject divisions, central public services, and technical services. Residents also work as a group on project assignments and participate in library committee or task force work. A travel allowance is provided for participation in scholarly and professional associations. The university library has a strong tradition of research and scholarship, and each resident is expected to develop and complete one project suitable for publication.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: Applicants must be recent MLS graduates from an ALA-accredited library school, with a graduate date of spring 1995 or later. Applicants must demonstrate interest in a career in academic librarianship and the promise of substantive scholarly activity. Applicants must demonstrate creativity and innovation in a work experience, and give evidence of the ability to persevere with a project or task to completion.
