An invitation to Salt Lake City . . .
Join your colleagues

You are invited to join your colleagues at the ACRL Sixth National Conference, “Academic Libraries: Achieving Excellence in Higher Education.” The ACRL National Conference is the only national conference just for you! Offered every three years, the national conference is an opportunity not to be missed.

All programs will be held in the Salt Palace Convention Center, just minutes away from all conference hotels.

Why you should attend

You have told us in membership surveys and evaluations that you want to keep up-to-date on academic library research and practice. And that you want to share your ideas informally with your colleagues. The conference planners kept your needs in mind when they designed the ACRL Sixth National Conference. You will be able to listen to experts, ask questions, and discuss solutions with other academic librarians. You will have many opportunities to learn about the latest innovations in academic librarianship.

Conference programs

The very best in academic library research will be presented by 52 contributed paper authors. These papers were selected in a double blind referee process. Two types of papers will be presented: research reports that use rigorous research methodology, and position papers that identify problems and propose solutions.

Thirty-five panel program presentations will offer practical advice on your library-related problems. Experts in bibliographic instruction, reader services, personnel, administration, collection development, and technology will share their solutions to library problems.

Thirty poster sessions will give you an opportunity to share in your colleagues' research in a more informal way. Sessions will be offered throughout the conference.
Proceedings

Included in your full-conference registration fee is a complimentary copy of the Conference Proceedings. The Conference Proceedings will be published in August 1992. Support for printing the Proceedings is generously provided by the Faxon Company.

Registration

Registration fees for the ACRL National Conference are: ACRL personal member, $165 (or $135 if registered in advance); ALA personal member, $205 (or $175 if registered in advance); non-member, $285 (or $255 if registered in advance); full-time library school students, $85 (or $55 if registered in advance). To take advantage of the advance registration rates, your form must be received by March 2, 1992. Registrations received after that date will be returned.

Daily registrations will be available on-site and not in advance. The fees are: ACRL personal member, $55; ALA personal member, $70; non-member, $95; full-time library school student, $30.

Placement service

A placement service, located in the Salt Palace Convention Center, will be provided by the ALA Office for Library Personnel Resources on April 12-14. Although registrations will be accepted at the conference, job seekers and employers are strongly urged to preregister. Preregistration forms will be available January 1, 1992. The deadline for preregistration is March 23, 1992. To request forms (indicate employer or job seeker), write: ACRL National Conference, Placement, 50 E. Huron St. Chicago, IL 60611. If requesting one copy, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope (#10). Enclose a mailing label for multiple copies.

Interview facilities will be provided. Employment policy prohibits the acceptance of job listings which bear discriminatory specifications with respect to race, creed, age, color, sex, or national origin. A salary range must be listed.
Welcome to Utah

By Amy Owen

Director of the Utah State Library Division
Utah State Library

I am happy to join my colleagues in welcoming ACRL members to Salt Lake City. The past few years have been exciting for Utah librarians. Although we have not been spared the financial pressures familiar to many of you, recent progress has been notable.

In higher education, library needs rank with faculty salaries in gaining legislative attention. The legislature has committed to a multi-year $75,000,000 program to expand college and university library facilities, and new construction is already underway for the first projects. One-time appropriations have also funded improved library technology and given at least temporary relief for collection development needs. Students in higher education have even persuaded the legislature to provide matching money for their own fundraising efforts on behalf of libraries.

Continued efforts to improve funding for academic library services are gaining strength.

Utah’s public librarians and the State Library recently completed a multi-year agenda establishing state aid for public libraries, and the State Board of Education has adopted a master plan aimed at reversing the decline in school library media services. Now the 1991 Governor’s Conference on Library and Information Services provides a strong platform for future improvements. These successes are in no small part due to strong support for education and libraries among the general public and elected officials and to the Utah library community’s commitment to quality service, open access to information, and spirit of cooperation.

In April, Salt Lake City is at its most beautiful and inviting. You will find warm hospitality, scenic surroundings, and a wide variety of excellent restaurants for those moments when you can’t take in one more meeting. Your colleagues here will do their best to assure a memorable visit. We look forward to seeing you soon.

Special events

All-Conference Reception

Enjoy an evening with your ACRL colleagues at the gala All-Conference Reception, Saturday, April 11, 7:30 p.m.—9:30 p.m. The reception will be held in the North Lobby of the Salt Palace.

Sunday Brunch in the Exhibits

Join the exhibitors for Sunday Brunch, 10:30 a.m.—12:30 p.m., April 12, to officially open the exhibits. You’ll have an opportunity to mingle casually with exhibitors and other conference attendees.

Lunch with the Leaders

Have lunch with current and past ACRL leaders on Monday, April 13, 12:30 p.m.—2:00 p.m. in the Marriott Hotel. Meet former ACRL presidents and current leaders. Cost of the luncheon is $20. Reserve your tickets on the conference registration form.

Lunch with the Exhibitors

Join the exhibitors for lunch on Tuesday, April 14, 12:30 p.m.—2:00 p.m. The cost of the luncheon is $12. Tickets may be reserved on the conference registration form.

STATISTICS: A Component of the Research Process

This new volume provides a general discussion beneficial to librarians and library school students wanting to see the steps of the research process and the decisions made in the selection of a statistical technique. It shows how to program a computer to perform number crunching, and how to compute those statistical techniques appearing most frequently in the library/information science literature. This book:

- provides an overview of the research process and shows where statistics fit in;
- identifies journals in library and information science most likely to publish research articles;
- identifies research tools that provide access to the research literature;
- shows how microcomputers can be programmed to engage in number crunching;
- introduces basic statistical concepts and terminology;
- presents basic statistical procedures that appear most frequently in the literature of library and information science and that have application to library decision making;
- discusses library support systems and shows the types of statistical techniques they can perform and;
- summarizes the major decisions that researchers must address in deciding which statistical techniques to employ.

This volume is intended for library school students, academic librarians new to the expectations of faculty status, and librarians wanting to be more effective consumers of the research literature.

Keynote Speakers

Julian Bond

Since his college days, Julian Bond has been an active participant in the movements for civil rights, economic justice, and peace, and an aggressive spokesman for the disinfherited. As an activist who has faced jail for his convictions; a veteran of more than 20 years of service in the Georgia General Assembly; and as a writer, teacher, and lecturer, Bond has been a leader of social change since he was a college student leading sit-in demonstrations in Atlanta in 1960. He will speak on “Cultural Diversity in America” on Sunday, April 12.

W. David Penniman

W. David Penniman became president of the Council on Library Resources, Inc. in 1991. Before that, Penniman served as director of Information Services Group at AT&T Bell Laboratories. He has served as vice-president for planning and research for Online Computer Library Center (OCLC) where he established the Research Department in 1978. Penniman holds an undergraduate degree in engineering and a Ph.D. in behavioral science and has published over 50 articles and papers in the areas of information systems research, development, and operation. Penniman will outline a research agenda for academic libraries on Tuesday, April 14.

Catharine R. Stimpson

Catharine R. Stimpson is university professor, dean of the Graduate School, and vice-provost for graduate education at Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey/New Brunswick. Now the editor of a book series for the University of Chicago Press, she served as the founding editor of Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society from 1974–80. She was the first director of the Women’s Center of Barnard College and of the Institute for Research on Women at Rutgers. She is the author of a novel, Class Notes (1979, 1980) and editor of seven books. Educated at Bryn Mawr College, Cambridge University, and Columbia University, Stimpson holds degrees from Upsala, Monmouth, and Bates Colleges. She will speak on “Women, the Information Society, and Freedom” on Monday, April 13.

Paul Saffo

Paul Saffo is a research fellow at the Institute for the Future. A specialist in the long-term commercial and policy impacts of new information technologies, Saffo devotes much of his time to issues affecting publishers and libraries. He is a contributing editor for Info-world Magazine and writes a column for the Los Angeles Times. He is also a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Computers and Society. He holds a B.A. from Harvard College, an LL.B from Cambridge University, and a J.D. from Stanford Law School. At Stanford he was editor-in-chief of the Stanford Journal of International Law. Saffo will speak on “The Electronic Piñata: Information Technologies and the Future of the Library” on Sunday, April 12.
Utah librarians welcome our ACRL colleagues from around the country! The Utah Library Association will hold its annual conference, April 13-15, 1992, in Salt Lake City. This has been carefully orchestrated to offer both memberships the best programming and exhibit opportunities. While in Salt Lake City, ACRL conference attendees are encouraged to take advantage of the state association's concurrent annual conference and the post-conferences. Full registration information will follow in the February issue of C&RL News.

ULA's conference theme is "Success Through Diversity." The conference programs will be held at the Doubletree Hotel and the exhibits will be in the ACRL exhibit area in the Salt Palace. The ULA exhibits will feature western regional publishers and a well stocked combined book exhibit. The registration rate for ULA or ACRL members is $35 ($50 after March 13, 1992). The fee for individuals registering for both the ULA and ACRL conferences is $25 ($40 after March 13, 1992).

The following ULA author functions are open to all (you do not need to register for the ULA conference to attend these functions):

- Luncheon with Gary Paulsen, April 13, $15. Gary Paulsen is a favorite with juvenile and young adult librarians but thrills readers of all ages with his exciting stories. Two-time winner of the Newbery Honor Award for Hatch and The Winter Room.

- Luncheon with Barbara Kingsolver, April 14, $15. Award-winning writer Barbara Kingsolver has received international acclaim for her sensitivity to women and their place in the richness of her regional portrayals. She is best known for her books The Bean Trees and Animal Dreams. She has just returned from six months abroad researching her newest book, projected for a spring release.

- A Gala Evening with Tony Hillerman, April 14, $35. Legendary author of rich tales of the desert Southwest, Tony Hillerman is releasing a new book in the spring entitled Mudhead Kiva. It promises to be just as popular as his previous successes, A Thief in Time, Coyote Waits, and Skinwalkers. Join Mr. Hillerman for a wine reception, dinner, and a book signing opportunity.

The following post-conferences will be offered on April 15 at the Doubletree Hotel (you do not need to register for the ULA conference to attend the post-conferences):

- "Here's How to C.O.P.E.: Creating Opportunities for Personal Empowerment," Kaycee Hale, Executive Director of the Resource and Research Center of the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising. $75, lunch included. Covers personal and professional empowerment, coping skills for success into the 21st century, stress reduction, problem solving in the workplace, and managing change. A tall order for most but not for the national consultant and highly motivating librarian Kaycee Hale. She has been highlighted in the January 1991 issue of Wilson Library Bulletin as the "image of success."

- "Creativity to Innovation Workshop," Susan Jurow, Office of Management Studies, Association of Research Libraries. $75, lunch included. Designed to improve library effectiveness through the application of creative problem-solving strategies to library problems and concerns. It will assist individuals in making the best use of personal strengths in the development and implementation of new ideas.

- "Total Quality Management in Government, or How to Thrive on Chaos and Achieve TQM," Roger Kirkham, president, American Training Alliance. $75, lunch included. Covers the basic principles of Total Quality Management and implementation strategies which could be effective in public sector applications. Here is an opportunity to learn an overview of one of the most popular management topics of the decade.

Exhibits tailored to your needs

Exhibits specifically tailored to the interests and needs of academic and research librarians will be open April 12-14. You will be able to visit over 200 exhibits by publishers, audiovisual producers, equipment and materials suppliers, jobbers, automation and information technology vendors, and network and consortia representatives.

The exhibits will be located in Convention Hall of the Salt Palace Convention Center. The exhibit hours are: Sunday, April 12, 10:30 a.m.-3:00 p.m.; Monday, April 13, 9:30 a.m.-3:00 p.m.; and Tuesday, April 14, 9:30 a.m.-2:00 p.m. Enjoy coffee breaks, Sunday brunch, and Tuesday luncheon with the exhibitors.

Save some time to stop by the ALA Store and pick up the latest titles from ALA and ACRL, as well as posters, mugs, and promotional materials.

Non-registrants may attend the exhibits at no charge but must first register for an exhibits visitor badge at the registration desk.
Joseph Boisse, ACRL President 1988-89, and Martha Bowman and Evan Farber, 5th National Conference Committee Co-chairs, opened the exhibits hall at ACRL's 5th National Conference in 1989.

Contributed Papers

The following contributed papers will be presented at the conference. The papers have been paired by subject matter and will be presented in one-hour time slots. The date and time for each pair of contributed papers follows the description.

Academic Librarianship

Library Ethics: An Aspirational Alternative to Its Commandments. Mark A. Spivey, Assistant Librarian, University of Utah. Examines ethics and cultural diversity issues.

Modern Racism and Academic Librarianship in a Period of Diversity. Edith Fisher, President, Tenge Enterprises. Discusses racism and librarianship.—Sunday, April 12, 4:15-5:15 p.m.

Do the Faces of Librarians Reflect Diversity? Tami Echavarria, Reference Librarian, University of California, San Diego. Describes an internship program to recruit minority students to librarianship.

Before the Waters Parted: Minority Leadership in Academic and Research Libraries. Donald Davis, University of Texas at Austin, and John Tucker, Purdue University. Achievements of Arthur Schomburg, Monroe Work, and Dorothy Porter are recounted.—Monday, April 13, 8:30-9:30 a.m.

The Perceived and Actual Benefits of Contributed Paper Sessions. Sponsored by ACRL Chapters. Jay Starratt, Assistant Director of Library Services, Southern Illinois University, and Carroll Varner, Associate Director of Technical and Administrative Services, Illinois State University. Reports on a survey of the authors of contributed papers.

Promoting Research in Special Collections Librarianship: The Role of a Professional Journal. Alice Schreyer, Curator of Special Collections, University of Chicago. Examines research and the current state of publishing in the field of special collections librarianship.—Monday, April 13, 8:30-9:30 a.m.

Collegial Leadership and Management: An Example in a Cataloging Department. Nancy Deyoe, Monographs Cataloger; Margaret Fast, Bibliographic Instruction Librarian; and Sue Weiland, Music and Media Cataloger, Wichita State University. Describes how the catalogers share collective responsibility for all departmental activities.

Librarians as Academic Advisors. Robert Sathrum, Natural Resources Librarian, Humboldt State University. Proposes that librarians can be effective advisors to undecided students, while gaining personal and professional benefits.

Librarians, Occupational Stereotype: Will It Ever Change? Indra M. David, Associate Dean, Oakland University. Investigates whether there are personality differences between academic librarians and general librarians.—Sunday, April 12, 1:00-2:00 p.m.

The Role of Librarians in a University Seeking to Internationalize. Peggy Johnson, Assistant Director, St. Paul Campus, University of Minnesota. Librarians have important information and service roles to fill as the U.S. moves forward with internationalizing higher education.

Information Support for University Decisionmakers. Meredith Whiteley, Senior Research Analyst; Kathleen Wolk, Information Management Librarian; Helen Josephine, Manager, FIRST, Arizona State University. Delineates the rationale for a new model of information support.—Sunday, April 12, 4:15-5:15 p.m.

Extending Library Services to Remote Sites: Regis University as Case Study. Susan Potter, Assistant Director of Libraries for Extended Library Services, and Sandra Hughes Boyd, Public Services Librarian, Regis University. Discusses adapting library services to provide extended campus patrons with access equivalent to that offered students at the main campus.

Curriculum Reform: Catalyst for Building Strong Faculty/Librarian Partnerships. Natalie Pelster, Reference Librarian, and Betsy Baker, Head, Reference Department, Northwestern University. Discusses general trends surrounding the undergraduate curriculum.—Monday, April 13, 8:30-9:30 a.m.
Bibliographic Control

Cataloger/Archivist Cooperation, or Don't Those People Know What a Series Is? Elaine Yontz, Special Collections/Humanities Cataloger, University of Florida. Characteristics of archival materials and patrons and the differing perspectives of catalogers and archivists are discussed.

Effects on Circulation of Dissertations of Omitting Subject Headings. Michael Sullivan, Dorothy McGarry, Brian Schottlaender, and Barbara A. Miller, University of California, Los Angeles. Discusses the implications of abbreviated bibliographic access on physical access.—Sunday, April 12, 1:00–2:00 p.m.

Bibliographic Instruction

Implications of CD-ROM Usage for Bibliographic Instruction. Karen A. Becker, Coordinator, Library Instruction, and Samuel T. Huang, Rare Books and Special Collections, Northern Illinois University. Survey data guides librarians in deciding which systems to teach, and assists in the development of the BI program.—Sunday, April 12, 1:00–2:00 p.m.

Learning Style Theory and Bibliographic Instruction: The Quest for Effective BI. Sonia Bodi, Head Reference Librarian, North Park College and Theological Seminary. Examines Kolb's theory of experiential learning and its use in BI.

The Academic Library Trainer and Instructional Design: Opinions and Practice. Pat Weaver-Meyers, Access Services Department Head, and Jay C. Smith, Professor of Educational Technology, University of Oklahoma. A descriptive study which surveyed instructional design appropriateness and applications in staff training.—Sunday, April 12, 4:15–5:15 p.m.

Understanding the Freshman Writer: The Pedagogy of Composition and Its Relevance to Bibliographic Instruction. Donald A. Barclay, Coordinator of Bibliographic Instruction, New Mexico State University. Argues that knowing more about the dynamic field of freshman composition will help reference librarians provide better instruction to freshman writers.

Common Ground: The Composition/Bibliographic Instruction Connection. Barbara Fister, Bibliographic Instruction Librarian, Gustavus Adolphus College. Describes major trends in composition and maps out ways in which they correspond to BI issues.—Monday, April 13, 8:30–9:30 a.m.

Bibliographic Instruction in the Electronic Environment: Incorporating Recent Cognitive Theories of Learning. Frances F. Jacobson, Librarian and Assistant Professor of Library Administration, and Michael J. Jacobson, Research Associate, Department of Educational Psychology, University of Illinois. Three cognitive theories of learning are examined in terms of their potential for application in bibliographic instruction.

Comparisons of Graduate and Undergraduate End-Users of ERIC and Psyclit on CD-
Contributed Papers

ROM. Grace Jackson-Brown, Reference Librarian, and Gwen Pershing, Assistant Education Librarian, Indiana University. Examines the effects of status, training, and major on searching satisfaction.—Monday, April 13, 4:15-5:15 p.m.

Assessing the Need for Bibliographic Instruction in Honors Sections of Freshman Composition. Marjorie M. Warmkessel, Coordinator of Library Instruction, Millersville University of Pennsylvania. Using methods of qualitative analysis, students’ attitudes toward the library were examined before and after BI.

First Things First: Thoughts on Teaching the Concept of Source. Mary W. George, Head, General and Humanities Reference Division, Princeton University. Suggests a method for teaching the distinction between primary and secondary sources.—Tuesday, April 14, 8:30-9:30 a.m.

Collection Management and Development

The Price of Progress: Inflationary Effects on Monograph and Serials Purchases. John M. Budd, School of Library and Information Science, Louisiana State University. Explores effects of price increases on total expenditures and on numbers of materials purchased.

Achieving Academic Excellence in Higher Education Through Improved Research Collections: Using OCLC/Amigos Collection Analysis CD for Collection Building. Gary Allen, Coordinator for Humanities; Suzanne D. Gyeszly, Coordinator for Social Sciences and Preservation; and Charles R. Smith, Coordinator for Science and Technology, Texas A&M University. Collection development policies are modified based on current and projected curriculum and research directions, strengths, and weaknesses of the collections.—Sunday, April 12, 1:00-2:00 p.m.

The Impact of ILLINET Online on Resource Sharing. Jay Starratt, Assistant Director for Library Services, Southern Illinois University; Carroll Varner, Associate University Librarian, Illinois State University; Pat Cline, Reference Librarian, Illinois State University. ILL data relevant to resource sharing are analyzed.—Sunday, April 12, 4:15-5:15 p.m.

African American Reference Sources: No Turning Back and Never Again a Drought. Katherine Dahl, Reference Librarian, Western Illinois University. The rise in increased numbers of African American reference sources is tracked.

Psychology Collection Development in Academic Libraries: Issues and Local Strategies. Ellen D. Sutton, Psychology Subject Specialist, University of Illinois. Psychology bibliographers need to make use of available information and work within their own institutions and across institutions to establish adequate support for the discipline today.—Monday, April 13, 4:15-5:15 p.m.

The Leopoldo Cicognara Project: Access to Primary Literary Sources in the History of Art and Archaeology. Lizbeth Wilson, Undergraduate Library, University of Illinois. Describes how a major collection has been made available through a collaborative, international, not-for-profit initiative.

Output Measures for the Cartographic Materials Collections of the ARL Libraries. Charles A. Seavey, Graduate Library School, University of Arizona. Using available data, measures are developed for map collections.—Tuesday, April 14, 8:30-9:30 a.m.

General Administration

Diversifying the Academic Library to Meet the Challenges of Economic Development. Ada D. Jarred, Director of Libraries, Northwestern State University of Louisiana. Relates the case study of a small university library’s positive response to financial exigency and economic recession.

Systematic Planning in Small Academic Libraries: Does It Make a Difference? Judith Jamison Senkevitch, Assistant Professor, School of Library and Information Science, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Findings with implications for management and planning practice are reported from an exploratory study of the consequences of implementing the “Planning Program for Small
ACRL 6th National Conference

Academic Libraries."—Sunday, April 12, 1:00-2:00 p.m.

The Age of Re... Re-thinking, Re-defining, Re-designing Library Structures. Patricia M. Larsen, Assistant Director for Access Services, University of Northern Iowa. Libraries are in the "Age of Re--" in that technological and societal changes increasingly require rethinking, redefining, and redesigning our organizations to more adequately meet the needs of today.

Towards a Theory of Organizational Change in Libraries. Judith Jamison Senkevitch, Assistant Professor, School of Library and Information Science, University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee. Using a qualitative, grounded theory approach, the perceived consequences of implementing a systematic library planning and assessment program are explored.—Sunday, April 12, 4:15-5:15 p.m.

The Question of Paperbacks for Academic Libraries: Selection, Treatment Options, and Durability. Stanley P. Hodge, Director of Collection Development, Ball State University. Examines important budgetary consideration and the results of a durability study testing preservation alternatives for quality paperbacks.

Prior Consent: Not-So-Strange Bedfellows Plan Library/Computing Partnerships. Kristin McDonough, Library Director, Baruch College. The universal access to computing has blurred distinctions between libraries and computing centers, causing administrators to rethink traditional separate organizational structures.—Sunday, April 12, 4:15-5:15 p.m.

Reader Services

Importance of Academic Library Services to Visiting Scholars. Nancy D. Anderson, Mathematics Librarian, and Lois M. Pausch, Acting Geology Librarian, University of Illinois. A questionnaire was used to determine which factors were considered most important to successful research by visiting scholars.

Using Research Questions in Unobtrusive Evaluation of Reference Service in a Large Academic Library. Cheryl Asper Elzy, Head of Education/Psychology Teaching Materials Center Division and Alan R. Nourie,
A Letter of Appreciation
Quality Furniture Made For Libraries
Dear Friends:

We at Mohawk would like to take this opportunity to say thank you. Your business, advice and support have been and continue to be rewarding and important to us.

We enjoy the relationships that have developed over the years. Your valuable input and ideas are vital, leading to the creation of product features and designs for all libraries to share. It is gratifying to see Mohawk furniture in use all over the country, appreciated by patrons and staff alike.

Whether your needs call for comprehensive custom furnishings or a single Amoeba Table®, we endeavor to maintain service and quality second to none. We continue our resolve for open communication between our factory and you and trust we are responsive to your needs.

On behalf of everyone at Mohawk, I would again like to express our gratitude for the support we receive from you, the library community.

Sincerely,

William W. Drucker

Salt Lake City attractions

As a convention city, Salt Lake's downtown is compact. Within two or three blocks of the Salt Palace convention center are hotels, three major shopping malls, over 90 restaurants, nightclubs, and most of the city's major attractions, including Temple Square and the newly completed Delta Center, home of the Utah Jazz basketball team.

Utah's liquor laws are easy to understand. Alcoholic beverages are served with your meals in most restaurants and hotels. Liquor may be purchased in state liquor stores throughout Salt Lake. Mixed drinks are served in Utah's non-exclusive private clubs (visitors are welcome at these clubs and temporary memberships are available for a nominal fee.) State Liquor Stores sell packaged liquors and wines in various sized bottles.

Getting to Salt Lake is easy

The Salt Lake City International Airport, only ten minutes from downtown, serves nine airlines with over 500 flights per day. All of the conference hotels offer complimentary shuttle buses to and from the airport. Greyhound buses, Amtrak, and Interstates 80 and 15 serve the city.

What’s the weather like in April?

Salt Lake City sits at the foot of the Wasatch Mountains. The weather in April can be a bit unpredictable, but spring in the valley is generally mild and green, while the Wasatch Mountains are still laden with snow. You can ski in the morning and golf in the afternoon. Salt Lake City boasts some of the finest skiing with its excellent powder snow. In April the average daytime high in Salt Lake City is 61 degrees.

Find Rare and Out-Of-Print Books and Serials by Just Pressing A Button!

Now librarians and book dealers can spend less time and money buying, selling or trading books and serials, thanks to BookQuest and SerialsQuest — powerful online databases that make it fast, easy and economical to access information on hundreds of thousands of hard-to-find publications.
