EEO/AA
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR/PRESIDENT

Historical Society of Pennsylvania

This world-class research facility and library is looking for a new leader. The Executive Director/President will be expected to possess and articulate a clear vision of the opportunities the Historical Society has to build its reputation and impact on both the Philadelphia and scholarly communities.

This position requires skills in three primary areas: Administration, development, and the effective management of historical research. The Head of the Historical Society should be a person with an exceptionally strong commitment to working harmoniously with a wide variety of people, including the scholarly community, the members of the board and staff, the public, and donors. She or he should also demonstrate an ability to work cooperatively with fund-raising professionals. It would be desirable for the successful candidate to have a PhD in history or related fields and/or professional training as a librarian, but neither requirement is mandatory; and a proven track record in financial management, personnel management, and long-range planning in a non-profit setting. She or he should have demonstrated ability to raise funds from private individuals and philanthropic foundations. Given the Historical Society’s on-going transition to a research library and its extensive renovation projects, the candidate must be able to oversee a major change in institutional focus, while maintaining productive and cordial relations with the membership, scholarly and institutional communities, funding sources, and the public.

THREE POSITIONS
REFERENCE/INSTRUCTION LIBRARIANS
University of Southern California
Leavey Library

POSITION SUMMARY: The Information Services Division of the University of Southern California seeks three energetic and highly-motivated Reference/Instruction Librarians for the Thomas and Dorothy Leavey Library, a teaching library housed in a state-of-the-art building that opened in Fall 1994. As a center for promoting information literacy and life-long learning skills to undergraduate students, Leavey Library is a focal point for evaluating information technologies, developing partnerships with faculty, and integrating technology into the curriculum. The Leavey Library staff includes seven library faculty, nine library assistants, a computing services coordinator, an administrative services coordinator, a facilities coordinator, an access services coordinator, and more than 60 student assistants.

The Reference/Instruction Librarians provide reference and instructional services to a diverse user community in an innovative and highly networked library environment. The Reference/Instruction Librarians advance Leavey Library’s teaching mission by participating in an ambitious instruction program that emphasizes critical thinking skills and the integration of digital and print resources, by providing research assistance in the Leavey Library Information Commons, by working with faculty members in a collaborative learning environment, and by participating in collection development in a variety of formats. Some evening and weekend hours may be required.

DESCRIPTION OF THE INFORMATION SERVICES DIVISION: The university libraries are an integral part of the University of Southern California Information Services Division (ISD). Serving one of the nation’s largest private research universities, the ISD is a unified organization whose goal is to provide the highest quality support for library, computing, and communication needs. To accomplish its goal, the ISD is structured in three, nontraditional core groups: public services core, infrastructure core, and communications core.

U.S.C. houses a collection of more than 2.6 million volumes in the main Doheny Library and 14 specialized subject units. As part of the ISD, it has a strategic goal of expanding networked information services, as represented by the USCInfo, the online campus information system, which includes an integrated library system and dozens of Web-based bibliographic and full-text databases. U.S.C. is a member of the Association of Research Libraries, the Center for Research Libraries, the Research Libraries Group, and is the host institution for the Southern California Electronic Library Consortium. Additional information about the University of Southern California, the ISD, and the university libraries component can be obtained from USCWeb at http://www.usc.edu.

DESCRIPTION OF DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES: Reporting to the Assistant Director, the Reference/Instruction Librarians actively participate in all aspects of Leavey’s activities, including instruction, reference, collection development, and faculty outreach, and collaborate with other librarians to develop innovative services and programs. Leavey’s extensive and dynamic instruction program includes drop-in workshops and seminars, course-integrated instruction, community outreach workshops, and in-depth collaborations with teaching faculty. The Reference/Instruction Librarians will design and teach courses emphasizing critical thinking skills and evaluation of resources, and will develop curricular materials, guides, Web pages, and other publications in support of courses and workshops. The successful candidates will work with other librarians to shape new instruction programs that promote collaborative learning among students, faculty, librarians, and others. HARVARD UNIVERSITY UPHOLDS A COMMITMENT TO AFFIRMATIVE ACTION AND EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

HEAD, RESEARCH SERVICES CENTER
University Of Southern California
Doheny Library

POSITION SUMMARY: The Information Services Division of the University of Southern California is seeking a dynamic, forward-thinking head of the Doheny Library Research Services Center to lead several recently merged departments into a new era of integrated services and service excellence. The incumbent is responsible for the successful integration, administration, and leadership of the center, which includes the electronic resources center, Hoose Philosophy Library, and reference and government documents services. The particular challenges of this position are to lead the administrative and operational integration of these units, establish an information services desk, and develop innovative modes of service delivery. The focus will be on the proactive development of new services that anticipate needs in support of education and research in the humanities and social sciences.

Reporting to the Director of Doheny Library who also is Chair, Humanities & Social Sciences Center, the successful candidate will contribute strong analytical and management skills, a commitment to customer service, innovative and creative thinking, and the ability to conceive and implement programs and services responsive to changing needs. Experience in leading complex organizations serving a diverse clientele is essential. The research services center comprises seven faculty and five staff. The Head of the Center, along with Center colleagues, provides course-integrated lectures, workshops, and seminars; World Wide Web and electronic resource development; and departmental liaison contact within the social sciences and humanities.

DESCRIPTION OF THE INFORMATION SERVICES DIVISION: The university libraries are an integral part of the University of Southern California Information Services Division (ISD). Serving one of the nation’s largest private research universities, the ISD is a unified organization whose goal is to provide the highest quality support for library, computing, and communication needs. To accomplish its goal, the ISD is structured in three, nontraditional core groups: Public services core, infrastructure core, and communications core.

USC houses a collection of more than 2.6 million volumes in the main Doheny Library and 14 specialized subject units. As part of the ISD, it has a strategic goal of expanding networked information services, as represented by the USCInfo, the online campus information system, which includes an integrated library system and dozens of Web-based bibliographic and full-text databases. USC is a member of the Association of Research Libraries, the Center for Research Libraries, the Research Libraries Group, and is the host institution for the Southern California Electronic Library Consortium. Additional information about the University of Southern California, the ISD, and the university libraries component can be obtained from USCWeb at http://www.usc.edu.

APPOINTMENT RANK/SALARY: Librarian II/$35,000 minimum or Librarian III/$42,000 minimum.

BENEFITS: Position is full-time on a twelve-month contract. Benefits include: TIAA/CREF retirement program; 22 paid vacation days per year; a choice of medical and dental plans; and tuition assistance.
