ACRL Board of Directors’ actions, June 2008

Highlights of the Board’s Annual Conference meetings

During the 2008 ALA Annual Conference in Anaheim, California, the ACRL Board of Directors met June 28 and July 1 and took the following actions.

Strategic Area: Higher Education and Research

Goal Area: Learning—ACRL and its members are recognized as collaborative leaders and partners in ensuring that students graduate with lifelong learning skills, improving techniques for assessing learning outcomes, and in creating environments for discovery.

confirmed the ACRL Board of Directors’ e-mail vote of April 22–April 29 approving the collaboration with AASCU and SCUP to develop and cosponsor a Webcast, tentatively scheduled for early June 2008.

Approved the creation of a Task Force on Assessment Skills with a two-year term. The task force is charged to: 1) gather “best practices” for various assessment targets, which includes activities such as accreditation, program review, service improvement, needs analysis, and setting goals and outcomes related to their institutions; 2) identify relevant assessment resources (services, experts and consultants, guides, online tutorials); 3) create a presence on the ACRL Web site and recommend ongoing responsibility for oversight and development; and 4) identify topics and potential presenters for a workshop (or series of workshops) that can be offered to develop members’ assessment skills.

Goal Area: Scholarship—ACRL and its members are recognized as authorities on knowledge management; and the creation, collection, preservation, access, and exchange of information.

confirmed the ACRL Board of Directors’ e-mail vote of April 15–April 22 approving the use of ACRL’s name as a cosponsor of the 2008 Sparky awards and authorizes the Scholarly Communication Committee to oversee its involvement with the award, up to and including contributions to planning and providing a judge for the contest.

confirmed the ACRL Board of Directors’ e-mail vote of June 3–June 9 approving support for revisions to Intellectual Freedom Policy Manual and that the manual be adopted by ALA Council at the ALA Annual Conference.

confirmed the ACRL Board of Directors’ e-mail vote of June 10–June 17 conveying its support of the SCOAP3 efforts as a worthwhile experiment in scholarly publishing business models to the SCOAP3 principals and to the ACRL community.

Goal Area: Advocacy—ACRL has greater influence on the higher education and research environment.

confirmed the ACRL Board of Directors’ e-mail vote of March 13–March 20 nominating Diane Rein to the position of ALA representative to the Section Committee of the AAAS Section on Information, Computing and Communication (Section T) from 2009–2011.

Forming and managing an ACRL interest group

1) Formation of interest groups. To form an interest group, members must complete an Interest Group Proposal form that includes name of the proposed group, identification of the initial convener(s), proposed scope, and an explanation of how this is either a unique group or to identify groups it overlaps with and to articulate how this interest group is different. This proposal is reviewed by the ACRL Board, which has the authority to create new interest groups.

2) Dues. As part of the ACRL member dues, each ACRL member can pick a combination of sections and interest groups, (with a maximum of two sections as is current policy). For example: two sections and one interest group; one section and two interest Groups; or three interest groups. There is a fee for additional memberships as determined by the ACRL Board.

3) Funding. Interest groups are allocated $150 per year, which can be used to support the work of the interest group, as allowed by ACRL policies and procedures. Interest groups proposing special projects that directly support the ACRL Strategic Plan are also eligible for and encouraged to submit an Action Plan Proposal to apply for special funding for the project.

4) Governance. Interest groups are governed by a steering committee, consisting of a convener, incoming convener, and past convener. The steering committee is the only group that would appear in the ALA Handbook of Organization, since they are the only members who need to sign formal appointment acceptance forms. Each interest group will determine the mechanism for selecting its incoming conveners.

5) Continuance. Interest groups reach a sunset date every three years. At the renewal stage, an interest group may request to be dissolved, may request to be renewed with the same charge, or may propose a replacement group with a different name and charge. If the interest group takes none of these actions, the interest group will automatically dissolve three years from the date of its authorization.
