Retirements

Wanda V. Dole, dean of the Ottenheimer Library at the University of Arkansas-Little Rock (UALR) since 2006, has retired. Dole led the renovation of public areas of the library to create spaces conducive to learning and research. New technology was explored and opened to UALR users and the community, and print and online resources have been expanded. Dole also established the Ottenheimer Library Development Board to plan and support fundraising. Prior to coming to UALR, Dole held administrative positions in the libraries of Washburn University, SUNY Stony Brook, Penn State-Abington, and the University of Miami. She also worked in publishing (Scott, Foresman and Co.) and book selling (NE regional representative, B.H. Blackwell’s/Blackwell North America). Dole served as a Fulbright Senior Specialist at the American University in Bulgaria.

Kendra St. Aubin has retired as head of collection development/acquisitions services at Bridgewater State University, after 13 years of service. She began her library career with positions in reference and government documents at the New York Public Library’s Mid-Manhattan Library and Fairleigh Dickinson University in Teaneck, New Jersey. After moving to Massachusetts she also held a reference position at Wheaton College, managed two corporate libraries, led the Rhode Island Newspaper Project, and served as bibliographic services coordinator at Southern New England School of Law. She served as a member (2002–06) and chair (2005–06) of the ACRL College Libraries Section Membership Committee and as secretary (2004–06) and membership committee chair (2006–10) of the ACRL New England Chapter.
