Now available for the first time in book format . . . combined cumulative indexes to the complete runs of 531 journals in History, Political Science and Sociology

COMBINED RETROSPECTIVE INDEX SETS

The "NEXUS" computer data base, originally created as a custom bibliographic search service in the social sciences, has been acquired by Carrollton Press and is being published for the library community in 25 hardcover index volumes,

More than 420,000 articles from the backfiles of scholarly journals dating back to 1838, were indexed by Subject and Author as input to the NEXUS computer file, and later reprogrammed by us for composition in folio-size page format.

The availability of the NEXUS data base in book form will not only result in its more frequent and convenient use, but it will also make it available to students and other patrons who could not afford to spend their own funds for computer searches.

Single-Source Bibliographic Access Eliminates Non-Productive Search Time

Until now, anyone wishing to make exhaustive retrospective searches on certain subjects, or even locate works whose dates of publication were unknown, have been forced to search year-by-year through numerous annual volumes issued by several different serial indexing services or in some cases in the cumulative indexes to individual journals.

The new Combined Retrospective Index Sets for History, Political Science and Sociology, however, provide not only the equivalent of long-term combined cumulative coverage of several of the indexing services, but also access to the many earlier issues of those journals which were being published for many years before the indexing services started covering them. Moreover, many of the journals, such as those in the field of "State and Local History," have never been adequately covered by general indexing services.

Separate Keyword Indexes Under 585 Categories Provide Precise Subject Access

The three sets contain 585 subject categories listed under 101 major subject headings. Because of the size of the data base, and the fact that there are an average of 600 entries for each of the 585 subject categories, we modified the NEXUS programs to produce separate, self-contained keyword indexes to all entries listed under each category. As a result, each entry is listed under an average of 3.8 keywords, which gives a total of 1.3 million subject entries for the entire collection.

UPDATING

Each set will be kept current with an Annual Supplement volume containing both subject and author entries. Beginning with coverage of journals issued during 1975, the supplements will also include entries from the backfiles of other journals which will be added to the data base. Prices and delivery dates will be announced.

Developing an understanding of the value of the library, both public and institutional, in the health care setting

The Librarian and the Patient

Eleanor Phinney, editor

This is the first comprehensive work on the planning of library services to patients in all health care institutions. The Librarian and the Patient integrates and expands the principles and standards that have been adopted to make the patients' library useful in medical and rehabilitative care. It concerns itself with many types and sizes of institutional settings and with patients receiving temporary or permanent care. Institutions for the mentally retarded and physically handicapped as well as those for the ill and injured are included. Information throughout the text is presented not as fixed procedures but as a basis on which each institution and its library may plan or develop services to fit its own situation and needs. Because of this emphasis upon principles, public libraries and state agencies as well as personnel responsible for patients' libraries will identify important extensions of their own functions.

A useful feature is the fully annotated bibliography for each chapter, intended to give the reader an opportunity to explore more deeply the problems examined in that chapter. Other features are the appendix material which samples the variety of public library services to health care institutions, and the diagrams and floor plans drawn with reference to patient needs.

Everyone likes to listen to a good story, well told. But to Dr. Caroline Bauer—whose storytelling credentials include stints in public and school libraries and her own radio and television programs—the "medium" is just as important as the message.

A really different how-to book, Handbook for Storytellers shows parents, teachers, librarians and volunteers how to use effectively a variety of media—including film, music, crafts, puppetry and even magic—to bring stories alive for audiences ranging from preschoolers to senior citizens. The storyteller is taught how to create these media where possible and in all cases how to relate them to various stories.

Handbook for Storytellers is the complete guide to successful storytelling, from planning a single special storytime to a series of storytime programs. No other single book contains such a wealth of information and guidance for both the amateur and professional practitioner.

A variety of subject bibliographies are included to help select appropriate stories to tell on any and every occasion, as well as several sample programs to provide novice storytellers with inspiration and direction.
